DISASTROUS FOREST FIRES IN WESTERN ONTARIO SUBSIDING

Toll of Life in Rainy River District Mounts to Twenty as Bodies of Victims Are Discovered by Fire Fighters—Five Thousand Volunteers Battling Widespread Outbreak

FORT FRANCES, Ont., Oct. 12 (C).—Flames still raged through thickly wooded areas of Rainy River district tonight, but fire rangers and volunteers, weary and choked with smoke, believed the forest fire which claimed twenty lives and left a black trail of ruin, was subsiding.

Since early Monday the menace cut a swath sixty miles westward from Fort Frances and thirty miles deep, stretching into Northern Minnesota. Hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of timber and cut pulpwood went up in flames. Beautiful farm homes, settlers' cabins, schools and stores were clumps of ashes tonight.

DEATH TOLL INCREASES

Four bodies were found on the burned ground in Dance Township at noon today to bring the death total in Ontario and Minnesota to twenty. Twelve young children, three mothers and two men died in Dance Township, fifty miles northwest of Fort Frances and centre of the holocaust.

Charred remains of Sam Fyle, twenty-one; his wife, nineteen; their eighteen-month-old son, and a sister of Mrs. Fyle, Mabel Olsen, twelve, were found near their burned home at noon today.

Their deaths added to that dread chapter of the tragedy in which Mrs. William and Mrs. Noah Labelle, their nine children and Frank Labelle's eleven-year-old daughter died on

TELLS STORY OF DISASTER

Settler Describes Attempt to Save Wife and Children From Forest Fire

FORT FRANCES, Ont., Oct. 12 (C).—Noah Labelle, youthful settler of the Rainy River country, who lost his wife and four children in Monday's forest fire, stumbled brokenly through a story of the disaster in hospital here tonight.

Noah, whose brothers, Frank and William, and eight other persons are also in hospital with burns, was at a neighbor's house, a mile away, when flames struck his home. He rushed his family to his brother Frank's home, hoping they could find a road to safety from there.

"As we fought our way through the flames my wife, who was carrying our little baby, became terrified and all but fainted," he said. "I tried to lift her and the child, but was unable to, so hot were the flames around us.

BROTHER COMES TO AID

"My brother Frank came to our aid and succeeded in saving two of my children as well as his wife and two of his own. My wife and my four other children are gone."

Barely able to speak, he said two of his children, Teddy, nine, and Burdine, thirteen, suffered burns and that Burdine's lungs had been infected.

"Pneumonia has set in and they say she hasn't much chance to live."

Fate played cruel tricks on Noah Labelle. The home from which he

ALL AGOG IN CAPITAL CITY

Ottawa Anticipating Gay Season on Occasion of Royal Visit

OTTAWA, Oct. 12 (C).—Ottawa's interest in the visit next Summer of the King and Queen grows daily. Visions of garden parties and royal courts have been conjured up by the socially minded. Parades, ceremonies, streaming bunting and crowds of loyal citizens are in prospect.

It is taken for granted Their Majesties will hold a garden party at Rideau Hall. There may be a state ball and a court.

Will Their Majesties land in Quebec or at Halifax? Will they travel through to the Pacific, visiting the capital cities of all the provinces? Will they attend the World's Fair at New York? A thousand questions trip from the tongues of the capital's residents.

NO PLANS YET

Officials here can't answer. They say announcement of the visit surprised them and no plans have yet been made. It is likely months of correspondence between Ottawa and London will be necessary before Their Majesties' programme is completed.

Cities and towns across the Dominion are expected to pour suggestions into Ottawa that they be visited.

The suggestion has been made unofficially that the King might prorogue Parliament in the early Summer. But there is also the possibility the Government might seek to hasten prorogation so that the attention of officials might be centred on the visit.

Canada First Policy Urged By Minister

MEDICINE HAT, Oct. 12 (C).—Support for a "Canada first policy and the provinces after" was urged by Hon. C. D. Howe, Federal Minister of Transport, when he spoke to members of the Medicine Hat Liberal Constituency Association here today.

He warned against the "threat of disintegration, East against West, and province against province." He said there was a lack of co-operation in Alberta in Federal affairs, adding it was with "great reluctance the disallowance weapon" was used by Federal authorities.

Dr. F. W. Gershaw, former member of the House of Commons, was chosen Liberal candidate to contest the next Federal election.

AIRPLANE WORKERS STRIKE

BELFAST, Oct. 12 (C).—In protest against employment of unskilled workmen, 1,000 employees in the assembly plants of the Short, Harland airplane factory here went on strike tonight. The strike was not recognized by the union.

Helpless in Fishing Boat Many Hours

VANCOUVER, Oct. 12 (C).—William Windsor, Steveston fisherman, was rescued by a Vancouver police boat today after drifting helplessly all night on the wind-tossed waters of the Gulf of Georgia in his disabled gasboat.

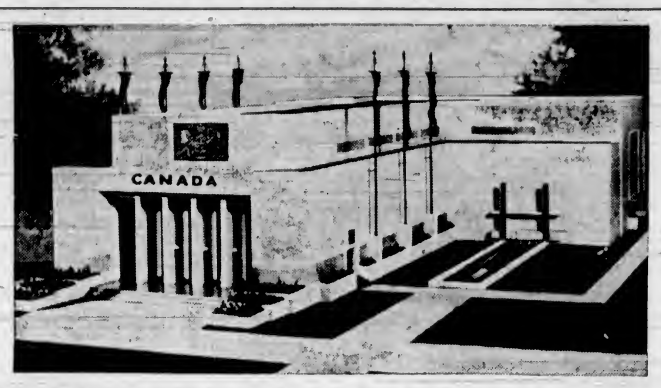

The police boat went to the scene when informed that passing craft noticed a fishboat apparently drifting helplessly three miles southwest of Point Atkinson.

They found Atkinson in his small gillnet boat Lilly. The fisherman told them his engine broke down last night.

Oil Tanks Blazing Out of Control at New Jersey Plant

Explosions Keep Roaring Inferno Spreading Through Refining Plants and Supply Depots—Supplies of Chemicals to Fight Fire Rushed Across Country—Loss Over $1,000,000

LINDEN, N.J., Oct. 12 (AP).—An eight-acre inferno of flaming oil and bursting tanks raged out of control tonight as 1,500 firemen and volunteers worked at a killing pace to keep the fire from enveloping one of the United States' largest oil centres.

Flames burst 300 feet in the air from fifteen burning tanks in the Cities Service Company's "oil village" where the fire was touched off by an explosion of a 1,680,000-gallon tank today.

A half-dozen more explosions followed in rapid succession, shaking buildings over a wide area.

SCORES OF HOSELINES

Lakes of water, topped by fire-smothering foam, spouted from scores of hoselines to keep the fire from spreading to the company's huge oil distillery across the railroad tracks and on the shore of the Arthur Kill, a narrow strait that

NO MONEY FOR BUILDING ROADS

Minister of Public Works Explains Impossibility of Granting Demands

VANCOUVER, Oct. 12 (C).—British Columbia has no money to build new highways, Hon. F. M. MacPherson, Minister of Public Works, declared today in an address to the Vancouver Board of Trade.

Some $5,700,000 in road revenue comes from the gasoline tax, the minister said, but nothing is left after maintenance costs of the present system and sinking fund payments are deducted.

"From every part of the province we have demands for new roads, for linking up with highways, for paving of unpaved sections—it would take $50,000,000," Mr. MacPherson declared.

"I wonder where the money would come from with a population of less than 800,000, with an average of forty residents to the mile of highways alone."

DEFENDS PATCHWORK

The minister defended what he said was called the "patchwork" plan of hard-surfacing. Of 937 miles on the southern trans-provincial highway from Vancouver to beyond Fernie, 546 miles were now paved, he said. Three years ago there were only seventy-three miles of hard surface.

Over 7,000 miles of highway in British Columbia were kept open during Winter under all weather conditions. The total of open Winter road in all Canada was only 12,000 miles, the minister said. Many provinces assume no responsibility for roads in Winter.

Mr. MacPherson said he hoped and expected that within three or four years all the pieces of the "patchwork" system would be connected up.

PRETENDER TO THRONE PASSES

Exiled Grand Duke Cyril Vladimirovitch Dies in Paris Hospital

PARIS, Oct. 12 (AP).—Grand Duke Cyril Vladimirovitch, pretender to the vanished Russian throne, died in exile today and thousands of mourning White Russians, who called him Czar of all the Russias, looked for leadership to his son and heir, twenty-one-year-old Vladimir Cyrillovitch.

An exile since the Bolshevist revolution twenty-one years ago, the sixty-two-year-old pretender has been ill seriously for two weeks with gangrene of one leg. He died in hospital surrounded by members of his family.

Most White Russians, living like himself in exile, accepted his claim to be emperor and head of the House of Romanoff. The Grand Duke was a cousin of the executed Czar Nicholas II, last of the dynasty to reign.

FATALLY HURT IN MOTOR ACCIDENT

Miss Clara M. Boddington Dies in Hospital After Being Struck By Automobile Here

Miss C. M. Boddington, 1010 Linden Avenue, was fatally injured shortly before 10 o'clock last night when she was struck by an automobile while crossing Fort Street at Linden Avenue. She was taken to the Jubilee Hospital, where she died at midnight. Police said the car was driven by Fred Fancett, 1260 Hewlett Place.

Fancett told police Miss Boddington was partly across the street car tracks and he thought she was waiting for him to pass. An eastbound street car he said passed Miss Boddington a moment before the accident.

The estate comprises 2,600 acres in Sumatra, 192 acres in New York City, including the site of Trinity Church, and considerable property in Holland.

CZECHS TURN DOWN CLAIMS

Hungary May Quit Negotiation of Minority Issue if Demands Not Met

KOMAROM (On the Czechoslovak-Hungarian Border), Oct. 12 (AP).—Czechoslovak negotiators today rejected Hungarian claims for the predominantly Hungarian population in certain parts of Czechoslovakia.

It as authoritatively reported that Hungary would walk out of the conference tomorrow unless her demands were met.

With the talks in deadlock, the Slovak delegation, sources close to that delegation said, had decided to ask the mediation of Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany.

TROOPS ARE IMPATIENT

Troops on both sides of the frontier appeared to be impatient.

The Slovaks who, in three days of conferences, offered a variety of proposals, were understood to have suggested that autonomy be provided for the heavily-populated areas in Slovakia, itself a newly-created autonomous state in Czechoslovakia.

Informed quarters said the Hungarians were greatly surprised at this suggestion, and insisted upon immediate occupation by the Hungarian army of the heavily-populated Hungarian areas.

FIGURES DIFFER WIDELY

Hungarian sources said that Hungary wants territory that includes 840,000 Hungarians and only 145,000 Slovaks. Czechoslovak census figures, however, showed only 700,000 Hungarians in the territory demanded.

Two representatives of the new autonomous state of Carpatho-Russia in Czechoslovakia joined the conference today in view of the fact that the areas proposed for occupation also include 30,000 Russians and 57,000 Germans.

BRUHN PROMISES TO AID MAITLAND

Member for Salmon Arm Agrees To Support Conservative Party Again

SALMON ARM, Oct. 12.—R. L. Maitland K.C., Leader of the Conservative Opposition in the Provincial Legislature, met Conservatives in Salmon Arm this afternoon and besought the assistance and co-operation of R. W. Bruhn, M.P.P., Minister of Public Works in the Tolmie Government and since then independent member for Salmon Arm riding. Mr. Maitland emphasized the necessity of a strong and united Conservative party in the great effort to give better government to the province.

Mr Bruhn referred to the many points which had caused him to separate himself from Conservatism, but now, with most of his ideals accepted by the party, he perceived that he had either to accept the apparent wish of local Conservatives and the kind invitation proffered by the new provincial leader or drop out of politics altogether. He had faith in Mr. Maitland that the policies recently formulated would be pressed to a proper conclusion and that all would be for a better British Columbia with the aim of the province above party. He found, therefore, that he could do no less than return to give of his best in support of Mr. Maitland.

Want Reduction In Gasoline Tax

VANCOUVER, Oct. 12 (C).—Frank Bird, manager of Vancouver Automobile Club, announced today his organization was "prepared now" to asked the British Columbia Government for a reduction in the seven-cent gasoline tax or, in the alternative, diversion of gasoline tax revenue to highway improvements.

Dealers Will Strike If Five-Cent Margin On Gasoline Is Cut

Distributors of Motor Fuel Will Refuse Service to Customers if Present Spread Is Adversely Affected by Action of Dr. W. A. Carrothers

IF gasoline distributors in Victoria are not guaranteed their present five-cent margin on the sale of this commodity, when the fuel price is reduced, they will stage a "sitdown strike" and refuse to sell gasoline, a representative meeting of Victoria station and garage operators decided last night.

The distributors were summoned following the announcement of Dr. W. A. Carrothers, Provincial Government fuel controller, that the price of gasoline would be reduced in British Columbia within the near future.

This morning, at 10 o'clock, twelve distributors, representing all the oil companies operating here, will interview Dr. Carrothers and state the reasons they deem it necessary to have the five-cent spread. Following last night's meeting, the delegation met and sent a telegram to the Petroleum Industries of British Columbia at Vancouver, asking their co-operation in maintaining the present margin. The Petroleum Industries represent the oil companies operating in the Province.

Reeve R. R. Taylor, who was chairman, and B. T. Derry, secretary of the Victoria branch of the Retail Merchants' Association, informed the meeting of preliminary

MAKING EFFECTIVE RESISTANCE AGAINST INVASION OF SOUTH

Bombing Planes Finally Overwhelm Efforts of Chinese Regulars and Militia to Prevent Landing of Strong Japanese Forces for Campaign Against Canton—Starting Inland Drives

Are Rushing Reinforcements To Aid Defence of Bias Bay

HONGKONG, Oct. 13 (AP).—Chinese regulars assisted by well-trained militia were putting up a scattered but fairly effective resistance today against the Japanese expeditionary force which landed at Bias Bay yesterday for a campaign against Canton in South China.

Exact strategy of the Japanese, estimated to number 35,000 well-equipped troops, was not yet clear, but one drive had been started northwest through a valley region skirting the highway to Whaichow, eighty miles east of Canton and the garrison city nearest Bias Bay.

Another column was striking south of Waichow and in a westerly direction toward the railroad connecting Canton and Kowloon at Hongkong, British Crown colony.

Chinese reports said the Japanese landing yesterday was effected with far greater resistance than was first believed.

REPEATED REPULSES

Japanese landing parties were repulsed repeatedly, it was declared, before the concentrated use of bombing planes overwhelmed resistance.

Especially severe skirmishing was said to have taken place around Nigshan at the extreme northeast part of Bias Bay on the highway to Whaichow.

A carefully prepared Japanese army estimated at 35,000 men

Thousands Cause Near Riot After Charwomen Jobs

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP).—A milling throng of women—Civil Service Commission officials said there were 25,000—stormed a Washington police station today, in an effort to qualify for $90-a-month jobs as charwomen in Federal buildings here. Police lines were broken in disorder.

Strike of Rail Hands Spreading

LONDON, Oct. 12 (CP-Havas).—One thousand porters and lorry drivers of the London, Midland & Scottish Railway at Camden Town tonight decided to join in the London railway strike which threatens to spread still further.

The London railway strike originally involved 1,000 porters and other employees of the St. Pancras and Euston railway stations and the Billingsgate and Smithfield Markets.

Meanwhile, representatives of the four principal railway companies declared they could not meet union demands for wage increases and improved working conditions at present, "in view of the economic positions of the railways industry."

TO REORGANIZE TRADE SERVICE

Bureau of Trade Extension Will Be Placed Under Separate Director

Reorganization of the Provincial Department of Trade and Industry to provide for a new director of trade extension and other changes will be presented to the Legislature at the coming session by way of amendments to the present statute, Hon. W. J. Asselstine said yesterday.

It was proposed to separate the trade extension and tourist development branches of the department, now linked together, and to place each under a separate director, the minister explained. Other changes in the organization of the department will be of an incidental nature.

CONSIDERING SURVEY

Proposals for an economic survey of a broad belt of land between Prince Rupert and Yellowhead Pass, along the line of the Canadian National Railways, are also being studied by Mr. Asselstine, at the suggestion of his department.

If the survey is undertaken, it will be by way of examination of the whole territory, with a view to charting its resources, particularly from an agricultural and settlement standpoint, the minister said.

DEFENCES TO BE INCREASED

French Government Decides On New Army and Navy Expenditures

PARIS, Oct. 12 (AP).—The French Government decided today to bolster the army and navy against Germany's growing force with an additional expenditure of 2,307,000,000 francs ($62,289,000).

The Cabinet authorized Premier Daladier to spend an additional 1,420,000,000 francs ($38,340,000) for the army and 887,000,000 francs ($23,949,000) for the navy.

The Government's decision was considered France's answer to the growing Siegfried Line on the opposite side of the French-German frontier.

Parliament previously allotted 25,945,000,000 francs (about $674,570,000) for national defence expenditures in 1938.

ENVOY TO ROME NAMED

As the nation moved to strengthen her arms, a step was taken toward bolstering her alliances. The Cabinet named Andre Francois-Poncet, French envoy in Berlin, as ambassador to Rome with the delicate task of trying to convert Italy from a potential enemy to a potential ally.

The ministers said Robert Coulondre, ambassador to Moscow, had been selected to take over the Berlin Embassy. Rene Massioli, director of commercial and political affairs at the Foreign Office, was named ambassador to Turkey.

Appointment of Francois-Poncet,

NEW MINERAL ACT PROPOSED

Provincial Inspections of Development Work and Staking Suggested

Preparing to bring proposed changes in the British Columbia Mineral Act before the coming session of the Legislature, Hon. W. J. Asselstine explained yesterday that the plan involved material alterations with respect to the staking and development of mineral claims, and would provide for inspections on the ground by the Provincial Mines Department to see that development work is carried out.

In place of $100 worth of development work in the year, the proposed amendments would require twenty days' work on the ground in the first year, and a definite programme of work in each succeeding period, he said.

Staking also is to be changed, with prospectors to be given the right to stake eight claims, or twenty-four for a three-man partnership; but to be otherwise debarred from holding any block interest in new territory, said to be possible now through wholesale staking of corporate rights by indirection.

TO INSIST ON WORK

The holding of mineral claims will rest upon development work done, and not upon the value of improvements, with the rights of free miners to be protected in the opening and development of new mineral fields, Mr. Asselstine stated.

A full draft of the proposed changes will be published shortly by the Department of Mines, the minister added, after returning this week from a tour of Interior mining areas, where he discussed the main elements of the plan with those engaged in the industry.

Some of the changes were proposed last year, but withdrawn for further consideration. They will be offered now as amendments to the British Columbia Mineral Act.

MAY ALIGN WITH GERMAN POLICIES

Czech Foreign Minister to Visit Berlin Today—Closer Relations Predicted

BERLIN, Oct. 12 (AP).—Informed quarters tonight regarded the visit of Czechoslovakia's new Foreign Minister, Frantisek Chvalkovsy, as an opening wedge towards aligning Czechoslovak foreign policy with Germany's and the Rome-Berlin axis.

Chvalkovsky, called from his position as Ambassador to Rome to the Prague Cabinet a week ago, arrives tomorrow to confer with Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop.

It was believed one subject the two Foreign Ministers might discuss was Czechoslovakia's ties with Russia. It was taken for granted the Germans would insist on severance of the Soviet-Czechoslovak mutual assistance pact if the new State is to establish itself on good terms with Germany.

Asserts Russia Made No Precise Promise Of Military Support

Earl Winterton Reiterates Statements After Protest From Soviet Embassy—Inskip Defends Course of British Government

LONDON, Oct. 12 (A.P.).—Earl Winterton, a Cabinet Minister as Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, tonight reiterated his assertion "Russia made no precise promise of military assistance" during the Czechoslovak-German crisis.

Lord Winterton addressed his constituents at Horsham, Sussex. At a Gravesend meeting Sir Thomas Inskip, Minister for Defence Coordination, said he believed Great Britain had "at last got on the road to friendly relations with that great nation, Germany, in Middle Europe."

The Soviet Embassy on Tuesday called Lord Winterton's remarks a "complete perversion" of Russia's position during the anxious days of the crisis.

GIVES TWO REASONS

Lord Winterton tonight advanced two reasons for what he called Russia's attitude:

1. She could only assist Czechoslovakia with her army if that army invaded Poland, as Russia and Czechoslovakia have no common border.

2. Execution and imprisonment of many Russian generals had greatly reduced the fighting efficiency of the Red Army.

Lord Winterton warned unless the majority of Britons are willing voluntarily to offer themselves to the country, Great Britain would hold neither the respect nor the confidence of those countries with whom Prime Minister Chamberlain hoped to establish better relationships in order to maintain peace.

OUTLINES THE ISSUE

Sir Thomas Inskip, discussing the Czech crisis from the British standpoint, outlined the issue thus: "Is it to be peace by negotiation or is it to be war by the deliberate choice of this great democratic electorate?"

He added: "We are ready to defend British interests, British liberty and British territory against any invader or against any aggressor."

MAKE RESISTANCE AGAINST INVASION

landed yesterday near this Crown colony and, almost unopposed, set out to cut the railway connection between Hongkong and Canton.

The next twenty-four hours were expected to bring a test of both the defences of Canton, teeming South China city, and the fighting spirit of the Cantonese.

JAPAN'S DECLARATION

Through the Japanese Consulate for Hongkong the "commander-in-chief of the expeditionary force of Japan to South China" issued a declaration that Chinese resistance "obliged the Imperial Japanese Government to dispatch a large expeditionary force to operate in Kwangtung Province, the base of anti-Japanese and pro-Communist China."

This first major landing operation, perhaps the start of a broad offensive to dominate South China, was carried out under the shielding fire of naval guns, and with the most extensive aerial bombardment seen in South China since last December.

Dispatches from Canton, about sixty-five miles northwest of Hongkong, said 137 planes took part in the onslaught. Civilian casualties were believed heavy, although Canton itself was not bombed.

BRIDGES DESTROYED

Bombs ripped away three bridges of the Canton-Kowloon Railway, transport link between the British colony and the Kwangtung provincial city. Domination of this railway was regarded as the first Japanese objective.

Kwangtung military authorities were reported rushing reinforcements to aid three troop divisions normally charged with defence of the Bias Bay district.

Heavy troop movements were reported along the northwestern end of the Canton-Kowloon Railway. Apparently these were reinforcements bound for Whaichow, north of Bias Bay.

There was a last-minute rush to clear shipments from Hongkong. Near the Hongkong border, ninety trucks were counted, apparently ready for a dash to Canton while highways were still open. Cargoes of oil for China also were threatened by blockade.

(In London, the Government let it be known Japan had been "reminded" damage to British interests might involve "risks for Anglo-Japanese relations."

URGED TO REFRAIN

(In Tokio, the Japanese Government urged Great Britain and other powers to "refrain as far as possible" from moving troops, warships and aircraft in South China, in view of the South China expedition.)

It was understood in Canton about forty British subjects and several Americans would leave on Thursday. The British and other consulates advised that women and children be evacuated.

The Chinese were reported planning to build a boom across the Canton River while Cantonese infantrymen confronted the Japanese advance overland.

A foreign observer counted about 120 Japanese vessels in Bias Bay during the landing operation. These included transports, cruisers, destroyers and aircraft carriers.

For hours the transports discharged steady streams of soldiers, horses, trucks, artillery pieces and machine guns. Small boats of every description ferried the men as barges followed with munitions, horses and other supplies and equipment.

FLOOD OF REFUGEES

The invasion sent a new flood of refugees toward Hongkong. Frontier police were bolstered by two companies from the Middlesex Regiment, and the refugees were being herded into large barbed-wire enclosures to be fed by Hongkong authorities.

It was assumed here the Japanese would make every effort to keep the war on Chinese soil. So far as naval action was concerned, Britain's Hongkong force, normally consisting of four major vessels and a number of destroyers and submarines, was on the alert to prevent any infringement on British sovereignty.

There was every indication the Japanese, aside from cutting the Canton-Kowloon Railway, intended to make an impressive military demonstration as an effort to persuade the Cantonese to abandon the Central Chinese Government of General Chiang Kai-Shek.

There was a growing belief the Japanese might be content to cut the railway and dominate the Canton River without attacking the metropolis itself. An attack on Canton might be costly.

TO DOMINATE SOUTH CHINA

SHANGHAI, Oct. 13 (A.P.).—The Japanese invasion of South China was seen here today as the start of operations to dominate South China and facilitate the offensive against Hankow.

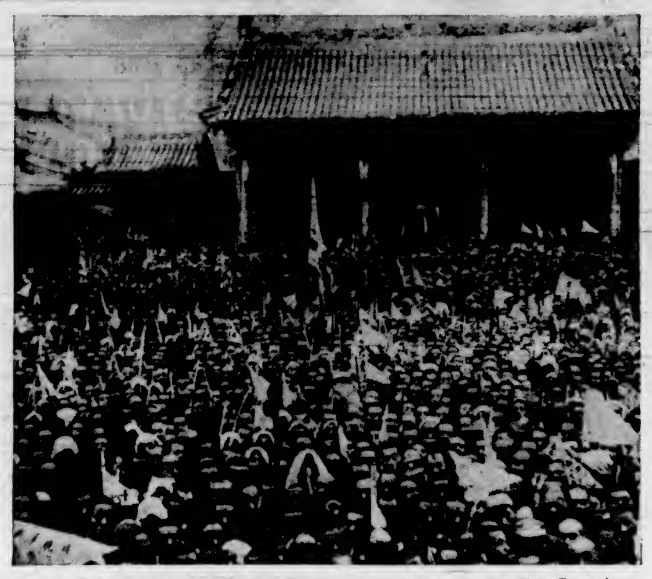

Landing of Japanese forces yesterday on the shore of Bias Bay, northeast of Hongkong, was regarded not merely as a drive to sever railways about Canton, but as a start toward occupation of that large city and the surrounding rich coastal areas.

The foreign observers believed the time of occupation could be measured in months.

Japanese naval authorities reported further progress along the eighty-mile stretch of the Yangtze River between Kichun and Hankow to the northwest, while combined land and naval forces tightened their grip on Yangsin.

Yangsin, gateway to the plains of Southeastern Hupeh Province, lies sixty miles east of Sienning, probable target of a thrust to sever the Canton-Hankow Railway about fifty miles south of General Chiang's military capital, Hankow. Japanese said capture of Yangsin was imminent.

Former Chinese Rebels Now Loyal

Life with the Eighth Route Army in Hopei is illustrated in this photograph. The Eight Route Army was formerly the Communist Army which waged war against the Central Chinese Government for ten years, but in the face of the danger from Japan, placed itself at the service of General Chiang Kai-Shek. To stimulate the spirit of resistance against Japan, the Eighth Route Army holds meetings similar to the one in the photograph.

DEALERS TO STRIKE IF MARGIN REDUCED

work of the gasoline committee of the above organization with respect to the proposed price cut.

SEND SUGGESTIONS

Mr. Derry said that a letter had been received from Dr. Carrothers requesting the views of the gasoline committee. The latter body compile with this request and made the following suggestions: that a drop in the retail price would not increase the volume of sales; the distributors were not using wasteful or extravagant methods in retailing, and therefore, distributing costs could not be cut; the retailers have to collect the gas tax and b all loss of shrinkage and credit; the retailers have to maintain other departments in order to profit on their business as the sale of gasoline was in reality only a loss leader to attract customers; and finally that the matter of fixing prices be delayed until a proper system of bookkeeping could be installed and the definite cost of retailing be ascertained, which at pres t, it is claimed, is greater than five cents.

WHY NOT FIX WHOLESALE?

Reeve Taylor commented they could not understand why only the retail price was being fixed and not the wholesale. L. deS. Duke, vice-president of the National Motor Company, said that he believed the Government did not intend to set a wholesale price because they wanted to create dissension between the oil companies and distributors. Mr Duke felt the oil companies were anticipating such a strike themselves and suggested working in close connection with them. The chairman wanted to know why the Government picked on gasoline when there were other commodities they could regulate.

W. A. Davis, managing director of the Davis-Drake Motors, Ltd., in supporting the proposed "sit-down strike," stated it would bring matters to a head. In this latter regard, the chairman asserted that Dr. Carrothers intended to fix a maximum price at which gasoline could be sold in order "to start something."

J. C. Hawkes, of Hawkes Brothers' Service Garage, said it had been intimated to him that the distributors would be expected to take a one-cent reduction margin when the price was decreased. Although it was not the official opinion of the oil companies, he stated the local managers were in favor of the dealers retaining their five-cent margin.

As far as could be ascertained, no one was trapped in the blaze.

A brief and sudden shift in the wind tonight blew the flames into the adjoining "tank farm" of the Sinclair Oil Company, where a pipe house and oil storage house were consumed.

FEAR GENERAL SPREAD

Beyond the Sinclair yard lies the massive plant of the Standard Oil Company, and fire officials for a time feared a general conflagration until the wind shifted back again.

The flames flared suddenly again when the fifteen Cities Service tank buckled in the heat and spewed out its 25,000 gallons of fuel oil into the flaming lake.

Unofficial estimates of damage already done ran from $1,000,000 upwards.

Trucks and fire apparatus sped from storage depots many miles away, bringing fresh supplies of chemical to mix with water from hoselines to form a foamy blanket over the blazing oil.

DISASTROUS FOREST FIRES SUBSIDING

Monday. Benny Foltz, twenty-five neighbor of the Labelles, was found burned nearly beyond recognition yesterday and across the lines in Minnesota three fire fighters died.

SCORES HOMELESS

Scores of persons, now homeless, gathered in Fort Frances, where Ontario relief officers took charge of them. They were mostly women and children whose men folk clung to the fighting lines determined to save what they could of their bush country homes.

Rangers called on about 5,000 volunteers to hem the flames in this district, while observers in airplanes dared thick smoke to warn of new outbreaks and advance of the flames. The crews expressed belief all persons in the fire area had been accounted for with finding of the Tyle family.

Like the Labelle families, the Tyles were attempting to flee when apparently stricken by smoke and trapped by the crackling flame tentacles which spread from tree to tree, through hay meadows and settlements.

REMOVED TO SAFETY

Hundreds of fire fighters in trucks rushed to the fire zones. Scores of residents were sped by truck from the darker sections, some of them being forced out when they stubbornly refused to abandon their homes.

Little sleep or rest came to Dr. D. C. McKenzie, whose hospital cared for the injured. Some of his patients are horribly burned and will be marked for life, but he gave all good chances of recovery except thirteen-year-old Burdine Labelle, daughter of Noah, who has developed pneumonia.

The countryside, turned black and desolate, had little left on which the flames could feed. Huge fir trees were stumps. Meadows were sinks of ashes. Wrecked homes, twisted tractors and automobiles dotted the district.

FLANDIN CONDEMNED

Premier Daladier also found support from his Radical Socialist party, the executive committee of which issued a statement bitterly condemning both Pierre Etienne Flandin, former premier, and the Communist party for undermining the Government's work in foreign affairs.

Flandin's exchange of friendly telegrams with Chancellor Hitler after the Munich agreement shattered the lines of Flandin's political group.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

CHINESE IS NOT GUILTY OF CHARGES

Mah Fong Sun Acquitted on Two Counts but Is Held for Third

DRUG CASE IS HEARD AT ASSIZE SESSION

A jury at the Fall Assizes, yesterday afternoon, found Mah Fong Sun not guilty of charges involving the sale and possession of opium. The Chinese was represented by Patrick J. Sinnott, M. B. Jackson, K.C., and Herbert W. Davey were the Crown prosecutors.

Sun was charged with unlawfully selling opium to one Carl Carlson on April 20, and with possession of the drug on April 21. The Crown failed to produce Carlson as a witness.

At the request of Messrs. Jackson and Davey, Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald ordered Sun held in custody in order that a third charge of distribution of opium might be formally laid. It was contained in the original indictment, but remained unread when the charge was presented yesterday.

Members of the jury were Arthur Rigby (foreman), Frederick S. Barrett, John D. Maltman, Charles Richardson, John W. Cashmore, Henry James, Herbert L. Johnson, William H. Hart, Thomas E. Ainscough, Edward Ord, Joseph B. Davenport and John Ardwin.

OPIUM IS SECURED

Detective Corporal Geoffrey J. Hayward, Royal Canadian Mounted Police, the first witness called by the Crown, swore that he gave $12 to Carl Carlson, an informer, on April 20. In company with Constable Percy C. Brooks, the detective followed Carlson to a Yates Street rooming house. Carlson came out of the rooming house with eight decks of a brown substance which the detective identified in court from his initials on each deck.

Then the detective and the constable searched Carlson and his quarters in the rooming house. They found nothing. Carlson was handed $15 with which to purchase more of the narcotic.

Detective Hayward stated he and the constable kept watch on Carlson's room through the keyhole of an adjacent room. They saw Mah Fong Sun come in and roll up his sleeves. At a prearranged signal, they entered the room and found ten decks of opium up a sleeve of Sun's shirt. They found $9 of the money given to Carlson on a table. The remaining $6 of the $15 was handed to them by the informer.

Constable Brooks corroborated his superior officer's statements. He told of sending the eighteen decks, containing a brown substance, to H. O. Tomlinson, Dominion analyst. He identified the decks and certificattes from the analyst, stating they contained opium.

WITNESS MISSING

Cross-examined by Mr. Sinnott, the detective admitted efforts to locate Carlson had been unsuccessful.

Sun was called to the stand in his own defence by Mr. Sinnott. His evidence in Chinese was interpreted by J. Y. Leong.

The Chinese swore that he first met Carlson at Edmonton several years ago, while cooking in a cafe. He met Carlson again last April on Government Street, and the informant said he had some work for him. Later, he visited Carlson's room in a Yates Street rooming house and was told that the police wanted to arrest a doctor because he possessed opium.

Carlson explained to Sun he was a member of the R.C.M.P., and wanted the Chinese to act as an informer. On April 20, he met Carlson in his room and was told to open a parcel and drop the contents in Carlson's hands. He did so, and was told that the parcel contained opium ready to deliver to the doctor.

HANDED PARCEL

Subsequently Sun met Carlson at Sun's place of business and was asked to make a copy of a note to the doctor. Sun swore he was handed a parcel and asked to deliver it to the doctor in Carlson's room the next morning.

Sun testified he went to Carlson's room as directed, but was arrested by the R.C.M.P. officers. They took the parcel from him. He denied making any attempt to sell narcotics.

Cross-examined by Mr. Davey for the Crown, Sun said he did not know the name of the doctor, nor what amount he was to receive from Carlson for acting as an informer. He identified a note produced by Mr. Davey as one Carlson asked him to copy, but he knew little English and could not understand what it meant.

Called in rebuttal by the Crown, Detective Hayward swore that Carlson had no authority to employ Sun, nor was Sun an informer for the R.C.M.P.

In his summary to the jury, Mr. Justice McDonald stated the R.C.M.P. would be very glad to know of a way of securing information on the drug traffic other than by "stool pigeons."

INVESTIGATION WILL BE HELD

C.I.O. Organizer at Trail Makes Complaints to Attorney-General

Asserting that his truck was stolen and wilfully destroyed and that he himself had received threats of bodily harm while acting as organizer for the Committee for Industrial Organization at Trail, Arthur Evans appealed yesterday to Attorney-General Wismer for an investigation of incidents he complained of in the Trail-Tadanac area.

Supported by a delegation from Vancouver and Victoria labor groups, Mr. Evans asked for the appointment of a commission to inquire into the whole affair, declaring his complaints had been ignored.

Refusing the commission, Attorney-General Wismer said his department would conduct an investigation into the case, and would assure Mr. Evans of the same treatment by law officers as would be open to any other citizen.

May Frame Measure To Provide for Fees For Over-Age Pupils

Proposed Regulation for Victoria High School Would Replace Former By-Law—Trustees Discuss Arbitration on Salary Questions

THE introduction of a regulation to provide for the charging of tuition fees for Victoria High School students over the age of eighteen years, or who have completed Grade 12, is contemplated by the city school board.

At a meeting of the board last night, when a report concerning over-age students was under consideration, George H. Deane, municipal inspector, explained that the charging of fees was formerly provided under a by-law, which had been deleted when the board's by-laws were revised earlier this year. Under Section 143 of the School Act, the situation could be covered by the passing of a resolution, which would become a regulation, Mr. Deane explained.

EXEMPTIONS PROPOSED

He suggested that a fee of $6 per month, which would amount to $60 a year, should be charged, and that provision should be made for exemption from the fee in whole or in part for pupils whose parents or guardians were unable to pay, or for pupils who, for any good cause, had reached the age of eighteen before completing Grade XII.

During a brief discussion of the situation, Trustee P. E. George, chairman, said he would like to see that every pupil had a chance to secure a four years' course at the High School.

It was finally agreed that Trustees W. P. Marchant and R. H. Green, with Mr. George, should study the question and present a report to the next meeting of the board.

NEW SALARY SCALE

Discussions also took place regarding the request of the Victoria High School Teachers' Association for arbitration on matters affecting the salary maxima on the new scale, the length of time to reach the salary maxima, and the positions of certain teachers on the schedule.

Claude L. Campbell, chairman of the association, in a letter to the board, stated that it was not convenient for the association to name an arbitrator until the manner of arbitration was finally settled.

He stated that the association felt that there was an honest difference of opinion between the board and the teachers, and that if this could not be settled by round-table discussion, the fairest method would be to submit the matter to an impartial arbitrator.

Trustee Marchant pointed out that the manner of arbitration was clearly set out in the School Act. The board had listened to the teachers and given careful consideration to their submissions, and if the teachers were not satisfied, they had their remedy under the act. If they wished to submit the matter to arbitration, they must appoint an arbitrator.

It was resolved that a reply on these lines should be forwarded to the association.

CITY RECEIVES VALUABLE BOOK

Provincial Directory for 1887 Presented by Mrs. Alexander Muir

Yellowed with age, but otherwise in excellent condition, a copy of the British Columbia Directory for 1887 has been presented to the city clerk's library by Mrs. Alexander Muir, "Bremhill," Patricia Bay. More than half a century old, the directory is a valuable addition to the library, helping to fill a gap in the shelf of records of the province.

The oldest directory in the city clerk's library is dated 1863, one year after the city's incorporation. Until Mrs. Muir made her gift to the city, the library contained none of the directories of the province published between 1874 and 1891. The directory issued in 1863 was obtained from an invalid in England, about six years ago.

The latest addition to the library was compiled by Edward Mallandaine, architect, and published in Victoria by Edward Mallandaine and R. T. Williams, a former alderman of the city.

PREFACE TO BOOK

The preface to an informative book on the cities, peoples and activities of the province of forty-one years ago contains the following interesting note on the progress and economic situation of British Columbia in those days:

"The compiler and publishers take the opportunity of congratulating the residents of British Columbia on the favorable aspect of affairs on all sides.

"Our drydock ready for use, the trans-continental railway complete, a Pacific line of powerful steamers established and a liberal subsidy therefor promised by the Imperial Government; enhanced and firm rates for real estate and all descriptions of property, with no war cloud threatening the political horizon; these are facts which promise a long continuation of the steady increase of population which has begun, arising from the growing acquaintance with our resources now so prevalent abroad."

ASSAULT HEARING SET FOR FRIDAY

Howard Estes Stands Charged With Causing Actual Bodily Harm to Biru

Charged with assaulting and causing actual bodily harm to Biru on October 1, Howard Estes pleaded not guilty in the city police court yesterday morning. After Magistrate Henry C. Hall heard some of the evidence against the accused, the trial was adjourned until Friday.

Estes hesitated for some time when asked to enter a plea.

"I don't know. My chief witness is not here," he answered. He finally entered a plea of not guilty.

Dr. Sedgewick Richardson, dental surgeon, testified that he examined Biru's mouth on October 3. He found three upper and four lower front teeth loose. In his opinion, the damage was caused by a heavy blow.

"Do you think I did much damage?" Estes asked the doctor.

When Magistrate Hall expressed surprise at the question, Estes said: "I did not understand the plea. I hit him with my fist."

STOLEN RADIO CASE PROCEEDS

Harry Stanley Berriman Is Accused of Retaining Automobile Set

Trial of Harry Stanley Berriman on a charge of unlawfully retaining possession of a radio set over the value of $25, owned by Mrs. Marjorie Drury, knowing the same to have been stolen, will be resumed before Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald at the Fall Assizes at 10:15 o'clock this morning.

Represented by Gordon A. Cameron, Berriman pleaded not guilty when the charge was read yesterday afternoon. M. B. Jackson, K.C., appears for the Crown.

Members of the jury are Albert H. Davies (foreman), Albert E. Newberry, Kenneth S. Rix, Johnson Fairhurst, James A. R. Rome, Leonard Harknett, Eric W. Philbrook, Charles E. Watson, Arthur C. A. Baker, John Ewing, Ernest W. Ockwell and George E. Parkin.

Mrs. Drury, the first witness called by the Crown, testified that she arrived here from Los Angeles on June 20. Her automobile was stolen from Newport Avenue on June 28, and when returned the next morning a radio set was missing.

DESCRIBES RADIO

She described the set as being painted dark grey, with the word "Firestone" on the dial. Mrs. Drury was shown a light blue colored set by Mr. Jackson and admitted it was similar to the one stolen from her car.

Cecil Walter Hulke, radio engineer, gave evidence that the blue-colored set shown in court was a Stewart-Warner model made for the Firestone Corporation. He said its present value was between $35 and $40, or $60 in new condition. He stated the model was not sold in Canada.

David Scott Barlow, manager of the Fort Street Branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, identified a $6 cheque bearing the signature of H. S. Berriman and endorsed by Hugh McMillan and G. B. Crump.

George B. Crump, proprietor of a store at 2201 Chambers Street, told the court that he cashed the $6 cheque for McMillan. He identified McMillan, who was brought over from Oakalla jail by a Provincial policeman.

RECEIVE YEAR IN COURT CASE

Gerald "Buck" O'Neil and Frank Medler Found Guilty Of Charges

On charges of attempting to break and enter the Victoria Meat Market at 707 Pandora Avenue early Saturday morning, Gerald "Buck" O'Neil and Frank Medler were each sentenced to serve one year in prison by Magistrate Henry C. Hall in the city police court yesterday.

O'Neil pleaded not guilty. Medler pleaded guilty to the charge.

Asked if he had anything to say, Medler wanted to know if his sentence would date from the time of his arrest on Saturday.

O'Neil made the following remarks:

SERVES OVERSEAS

"I do not ask for any partiality. I was in the trenches at sixteen years of age and went through three of the worst battles on the Western Front. When overseas I stole chickens and potatoes to sell to the officers for rum money.

"After being discharged medically unfit I returned to Canada and joined the city police force. My record was good, but I admit being discharged for drinking. I joined the Royal Flying Corps and became an observer. I am not a menace to society. On the other hand, society owes me some consideration. They tell me I was hit by an automobile and knocked twenty feet last week. I have never felt the same since," O'Neill concluded.

In pronouncing sentence upon O'Neil, Magistrate Hall remarked: "You know and I know liquor has been one great weakness in your life. You bear a great name, but are not a credit to it, to put it mildly. In this offence I concluded you were the lookout."

Court of Appeal

Victoria Sittings

Rex (R) vs. Gordon Lim, Chang Sing Jung, Wong Ying, Lee Hoy and Lum How (A)—Argument in this appeal was completed yesterday and judgment reserved.

C. L. McAlpine, K.C., and J. Farris for the appellants; Dougald Donaghy, K.C., and H. Castillon for the Crown, respondent.

The King (A) vs. Chin Shuk (R)—This is an appeal by the Crown from a decision of Mr. Justice Manson granting the release of the respondent on a writ of habeas corpus.

The respondent was convicted by H. S. Wood, K.C., police magistrate in Vancouver, on September 16 1935, on a charge of unlawfully distributing opium contrary to the "Opium and Narcotic Drug Act" and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary and a fine of $1,000.

Prior to his discharge, the immigration authorities held a board of inquiry in the penitentiary and ordered his deportation to China. Application was then made before Chief Justice Morrison for a writ of habeas corpus, and upon the return of the writ His Lordship ordered his release on the grounds that he had not been informed by the board of inquiry of his right of appeal. At the hearing, the Crown applied for a writ of certiorari for the production of the record of proceedings before the immigration officers, but that application was dismissed.

The Crown is appealing against both orders.

Dougald Donaghy, K.C., for the appellant; A. deB. McPhillips for the respondent.

Oak Bay police found the doors of the garage closed and the ignition switch of the car on.

Dr. E. C. Hart, coroner, attended and ordered an inquest at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel on Friday morning at 10 o'clock. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Mr. Davis was well known here, being owner of the Davis Realty Company.

PREPAREDNESS

One lesson taught the British people by the late crisis is the need for preparedness and already there are evidences that the question of defences are being tackled even more seriously than in recent years. It is realized now that the Regular and Territorial Armies must be brought up to full strength and the latter is to be organized in the same way as the former. An appeal has gone out for 31,000 recruits for the Royal Air Force and for 500,000 further recruits for A.R.P. services. A scheme has been prepared for emergency organization for the accommodation of casualties. It is possible that a National Register will be formed so as to learn how to make the most efficient use of the country's manpower in wartime.

There was partial recognition of the need for greater preparedness for some time past; now it is regarded as more imperative than ever before. Last June Mr. Chamberlain said Parliament would have to decide upon the demands that might have to be made upon "the personal services, material resources or the wealth of individuals in a major war." It is always apparent that there are some emergency measures that must await the advent of war, but, judging from the practices in other countries, and particularly in Germany, Great Britain has still much to do, while the rest of the Empire has hardly commenced to do what should be done. Such organization as is now being carried on in Great Britain with its intensified aspects does not mean conscription. It is national insurance on a voluntary basis.

CASUAL EDUCATION

Mr. H. G. Wells, the novelist and writer on economic subjects, can always be relied upon for caustic criticism. He says now that people are living in an atmosphere of "the most casual education," with "a poor little, feeble string of universities, timid, and when a crisis occurs almost inaudible, and the rarity of anything like a really efficient school in the world." Mr. Wells, however, does not indulge in downright criticism without constructive suggestions. He wants to see a strenuous effort put forth "to organize mental life on a sounder and bolder scale." He admits that in movements for the co-ordination of knowledge there are the beginnings and the accumulation of a systematic arrangement of such knowledge, but he claims there must be summarization, there must be a world ideology brought into existence if the world is to be much better than it is today.

Mr. Wells says he has talked to teachers and has asked if they wouldn't like "to have a really big encyclopaedia at their back supplying material for their lessons." They flare up and answer "But we know everything already." They claim that he does not understand what they are doing, unaware that they are making a new world as fast as it can be made. To this Mr. Wells replies that he is not blaming them, but that what they are doing is something quite pitiful to what ought to be done.

ON RELIEF

A problem common to many countries, but obtaining in an intensified way in the United States, is that of the growing number of persons receiving public aid in some form or other. In the neighboring republic the total in July was 21,000,000. That was in the height of the Summer when, normally, there is more industrial activity than in the Winter months. A National Industrial Conference Board survey shows that one out of sixteen persons in the United States is now regularly and permanently on the public pay roll. Between September, 1937, and June, 1938, there was a reduction in the number of those employed of 3,340,000, and in that period the Government developed 79,000 new jobs. Commenting on this, The Los Angeles Times says: "It is not true, of course, that putting one man on the Government pay roll necessarily throws forty-two men out of private jobs, but there is a certain amount of casual relationship. When taxes are increased on private industry, as they must be to enable the Government to hire more men, private industry is forced to retrench somewhere or go broke."

ONE FIRM'S TAXATION

Some conception of the burden of taxation which weighs so heavily on industry in this country is given in a statement prepared by the Dominion Engineering Company. The total of taxes that organization paid in 1937 was $575,723, of which $498,600 went to the Dominion Government, $9,517 to Provinces and $67,600 to municipalities. In the amount included in Federal taxation the sales taxes paid on the company's products amounted to $282,020, those on materials consumed by the company and on equipment for its own use, $36,983, and sales taxes on products purchased and resold, $12,875. Thus the total sales taxes were $331,878. In Customs duty paid on materials and equipment imported the company paid $117,045; on excise taxes paid on imports, $18,206, and in income taxes paid to the Government, $31,471.

During the year in which the taxation amounted to a total of $575,723, the company paid in wages and salaries, $1,564,716. Its earnings from manufacturing operations, before providing for depreciation of plant and equipment, were $340,912, and the net earnings, after setting aside a reasonable reserve for depreciation, and including revenue from investment of reserves, were $143,377.

The company itself has published these figures and added some comment. According to The Financial Post, of Toronto, emphasis is laid on the detrimental effect of high taxes on industrial development, particularly the high sales tax, which weighs unduly heavily on the price of manufactured goods and operates against the investment of money for the expansion and improvement of industries. That means there are fewer employment opportunities for the people. The sales taxes alone levied last year on Dominion Engineering were equivalent to an increase in its wage costs of more than 21.3 per cent, and, including all taxation, of more than 37 per cent. The statement then says:

"These figures also suggest the extent to which high taxation exerts a downward pressure upon wages and at the same time increases the cost of everything the wage-earner buys. They suggest the urgent need for a more balanced distribution of taxation over a broader base, and the necessity for economy in Government spending and the avoidance of further obligations which will result in further increases in taxation." To this comment The Financial Post adds: "Canada's public finance and taxation problems would tend to disappear quickly if every Canadian wage-earner were kept informed of the personal weight of taxation as are the employees and customers of Dominion Engineering Company."

FREEDOM AND LIBERTY

The topmost figures on the National Memorial at Ottawa are to be called "Peace" and "Freedom" instead of "Peace" and "Liberty," because Mr. Mackenzie King says that Liberty is an American word and Freedom is a good British word. This might be a good reason if it were true, but it is not, for Liberty and Freedom are both British words. The translators of the English Bible preferred the use of the word Liberty to Freedom; in fact, it is used on all occasions where Freedom might have been substituted. Milton, one of the master minds of literature, also preferred the word Liberty and in a memorable passage said: "Give me the right to know, to utter and to argue according to my conscience above all other liberties." The fact is that the words are about equally used and to signify the same thing. Perhaps, however, though he did not say so, Mr. King recalled the lines of Dryden and applied them to Canada in making his choice:

Freedom! which in no other land will thrive—
Freedom! an English subject's sole prerogative.

MONTREAL

The latest edition of Lovell's Montreal Directory gives the population of Canada's greatest city as 1,263,298 and of Greater Montreal as 1,443,588. The growth of Montreal will become of more emphatic significance four years hence when the city celebrates the three hundredth anniversary of its founding by Maisonneuve. It is a long cry for any Canadian city back to 1642, and yet it was earlier still, in 1611, that Champlain began clearing the forest where Montreal now stands. In 1892 Montreal's population was but little over 200,000; by 1942 it will have passed the million and a half mark. It has been a British possession since September 8, 1760, and was incorporated as a city in 1832. When it celebrates its tercentenary in 1842 the event will be of interest throughout the country, for there is no one who has ever visited Montreal who has not a warm place in his or her heart for its hospitality, its big heartedness and its broad outlook. It is the true cosmopolitan city of Canada.

Note and Comment

By Sandham Graves

Consider the doctrine of reasonable care, one of the common law responsibilities of every citizen under every circumstance. Times without number one has heard it defined in the Police Court, in the County Court, in the assizes of the Supreme Court, and in the Appeal Court itself. Boiled down to everyday terms, the doctrine of reasonable care assumes that every individual will act with normal and prudent judgment while in control of a dangerous instrument, capable of bringing harm to himself or to others. It goes further, and assumes that every individual will leave undone nothing which may be necessary to safeguard the lives and property of himself or of others. It demands of each person the exercise of reasonable care, and at all times.

Apply that to hunting, and you will be puzzled by the annual toll of life and property, already commenced this season. Without being told, you may write it down now that before the hunting season is ended men will be shot in mistake for a deer; men will be shot after separating from their companions in traversing the same section of the woods; men will be shot in climbing over fence-rails; men will shoot themselves in hauling shotguns and rifles muzzle-first through a barricade; men will shoot themselves in reaching for a gun in an automobile or an open boat; and men will be shot merely because they happened to be on the scene while someone else unloaded a rifle they did not know how to handle. The doctrine of reasonable care, however, demands that a hunter should have a working knowledge of the firearms he is carrying; that under every circumstance he should see clearly and fully what he is shooting at; and that he will carry the weapon without danger to himself or to his companions. In a word, that he will use ordinary sense and normal care.

Apply the doctrine of reasonable care to motoring, including both the motorist and the pedestrian, and you have a similar set of facts. Weighing one ton or more, the average automobile is a potentially dangerous weapon at any speed, and an unbridled hazard at such times as it is physically out of control. Yet you may write it down that two or more people will be killed each month in this Province alone, scores injured, and property damage done to the extent of literally hundreds of thousands of dollars. If pedestrians pursue the doctrine of reasonable care they will not step suddenly off a sidewalk into the traffic stream; they will not dart out from behind a parked car at the curb; they will not walk in the middle of a country road at night; but they will take ordinary and reasonable care both of their own safety and of the walking hazards they may create for those who drive motor vehicles. Similarly, the motorist is expected to take ordinary and reasonable care of himself, and of everybody else in the swiftly moving field. His care is that of a moving ton, which cannot be stopped by a brain wave, and must be given time in which to obey his voluntary and involuntary commands. Accident sheets would teach him that the largest proportion of all auto collisions take place in broad daylight, in dry weather, with clear visibility, and arise from an element of hurry, superimposed on that unlooked for element of chance which so frequently turns up. The law says because a motorist is handling a dangerous instrument he must take ordinary and reasonable care; such care, in fact, as an ordinary person would take under identical circumstances.

If the doctrine of reasonable care stopped there, there would be a distinct chance that individuals would learn to be careful in hunting, and careful in walking or driving; but it does not. The doctrine of reasonable care spreads over the entire field of human existence; entering into every walking act of man, woman or child. It insists, first on the safety of the individual, and, secondly, on the safety, rights, and privileges of others. It places the individual in the position of being responsible at all times to a jury of his peers, who may be called on to say whether or not, in their judgment, he acted as would an ordinary man in the exercise of normal and reasonable care. If the doctrine of reasonable care were observed as it should be, you would seldom read of people being blown to bits by dynamite; of them burning to death with coal oil at a hot stove; of them electrocuting themselves with an extension light in a damp cellar, or by touching a socket in the bathtub; or of them being killed by standing under the branches of a tree in a lightning storm. These, what you might call the violences of unreasonable judgment, proclaim their own results. What man could tell of the myriad and concealed results that spring from lack of ordinary care in minor and daily tasks of life; or of the wastage that takes place in consequence.

In this, the high-speed age of mechanical readjustment, the doctrine of reasonable care takes on fresh meaning. Reasonable judgment and ordinary care, always desirable, have become a necessity, without which man and his fellows may not live, or, living, retain the use of their faculties and freedom. At the present moment there is no place where the doctrine of reasonable care could be applied with better results than in the woods at the start of the hunting season. Already one man has shot himself and injured a companion by dragging a gun towards himself in a boat; while another man has been shot "in mistake for a moose." In the judgment of ordinary, prudent people, a moose is in no respect like a man; and everyone carrying firearms is under a duty to see fully and clearly that at which he shoots.

Glancing Over Sport

They say a change is as good as a rest. Well, that's the reason Charlie Conacher has been sold down the river to the Detroit Red Wings in the National Hockey League for a reported price of $16,000. That's funny, but it's not news to me, for Lynn Patrick told me during the Summer that Conacher would end up with Jack Adams and company. . . . According to report, there is a possibility that another basketball star will arrive in the city in a few days to join one of the local senior clubs. . . . Do you know that the Pittsburgh Pirates, the club which had the National League pennant stowed away until the Cubs staged their sensational home stretch drive, which clipped the Buccaneers at the wire in a photo-finish, had 700 press buttons all ready for the scribblers to attend the world series? Inscribed on them was: "Buccaneers, Press Button, 1938 World Series." . . . The War Admiral-Seabiscuit race on November 1 will be known as the Pimlico Special. This title has been selected as the Maryland Racing Association does not allow match races. So it's a two field entry in a special attraction.—J.D.

In the Clouds Again

"Now is the time for all good Victorians to come to the aid of an airport"—to borrow the old typewriter practice phrase. With the announcement that the Dominion Government is prepared to loan us the Patricia Bay airport, now under construction, if the city shows the initiative to commence work on one of its own, is encouraging news. Some concerted action in this town might start the ball rolling that will eventually end up in a Trans-Canada airfield here.—W.I.F.

STREET CARS VS. BUSES

Sir,—In defence of tramways may I offer some experience, warning and prejudice. To begin with there are few places in the world where for choice I would not prefer electric trams to buses. When we were asked to vote in favor of buses versus the B.C. Electric Interurban service I for one did so in desperation because of the peculiar idea of pleasing people the management persisted in offering us. The original trams were smooth. These were replaced with old ones from elsewhere and the old adequate time table was repeatedly and amazingly altered. One gap of nearly two hours, then two following each other so that the conductor had to look backwards for fear of being run into by the next car—both comfortably empty. They used to make a nice swishy sound down in the valley instead of rumbling past one's garden. To citizens of Victoria I would warn you to choose between noise and smell. The noise could be eliminated, but will buses use gasoline? Can one read in a bus? On the other hand, the present poles are ugly. I wonder whether we could not jump into a new age and have something we really want. Entirely electric buses and noiseless trams?

A word for drivers and conductors for having looked after the old and very young. The school trams which travel in the opposite direction from business are worth inspection. My children used them for years. Conductors deserve solid pensions now, and drivers, eventually.

THE MUNICH SETTLEMENT

Sir,—In your leading editorial Friday, you point out the inconsistency of Mr. Churchill. A great hobby of yours is condemning someone for the very things you yourself are guilty. It's a case of "the kettle calling the pot black." Look back over your editorials that date from September 20 to the 27th. They are all in the same strain. Then, you felt deeply for the unfortunate Czechs. You spoke of them as being on the auction block. Strength had to be used to stand off Hitler. If Hitler got the Sudeten "it was only an instalment"—were your words, "a temporary expedient"; while you mentioned no names, you weren't altogether satisfied with Chamberlain's backing-up methods, and you didn't forget to express and pursue that trend of thought. "The challenge of dictatorship must be met," and "the democracies have swallowed their pride, but what they cannot swallow is their honor." All very fine.

Now what a change. In your fulsome praise, Chamberlain is a sort of demi-god—even if a weeping one. You suddenly find the Sudeten was a festering sore that had to be removed, and it's all for the best. The principle of the thing and the manner of the removal — poof, that's nothing. To confirm some of your assertions you quote The London Times and Observer, the two leading pro-German papers in England. You quote returning travellers who say the Sudetens had a grievance, and you quote "The Dove of Peace," Runciman, all these people have interviewed the Sudetens. One may as well go to the Liberal headquarters in town and ask them which is the better party, Liberal or Conservative? For all your ranting and fulsome flattery there're not a man among you who is entirely satisfied at the Munich thing; far from it. You hedge and admit it yourself. You see danger in your brothers-in-arms the Nazis. And well you may.

The main facts of the case are that Chamberlain, with all the cards in his hand that represented the one thing he has prated about so long and so often, the one thing he has said he wanted so much—Peace—went to Munich and could not unload them fast enough on to Hitler. He excluded to his dishonor, the very nation (the despised Russian) that gave him the winning hand. At one stroke he helped Germany win the Great War after twenty years, at the same time raising that nation to be top power of the world with Britain running close to being a second-rate one. He dishonored the English name by pressing France to break her treaty with the Czechs, then came home waving in a very undignified manner a scrap of paper agreed to by Messrs. Hitler and Mussolini. The man is either a criminal fool or a Nazi. That he is a dictator is proven. He consulted neither colleagues nor the Dominions over the Munich affair. It seems only one conclusion can be arrived at. He never at any time intended to resist Hitler. When the English people wake up and find out how they have been hoodwinked, a tremendous reckoning will come.

COMMUNITY CHEST

Sir,—As a resident of Lower Vancouver Island, may I extend to the people of Greater Victoria best wishes for complete success in their second drive for funds for the "Community Chest."

The method, viz., concentration on one direct object, is beyond the shadow of doubt the best method of attacking this or any community problem.

The object itself is one that should appeal to every good citizen, as it not only relieves suffering and want, but does it in an intensely practical way, avoiding both waste and overlapping.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily Colonist of October 13, 1888)

False Alarms Received—On Thursday night a half dozen or more alarms from different parts of the city were received at the Central Fire Station. The number of alarms made it impossible to ascertain the numbers of the boxes pulled, and so after harnessing up the horses and getting everything in readiness, Chief Engineer Deasy and his men sat down until a telephone alarm should be received or some definite information as to the location of the fire. The alarms proved false ones, and some are supposed to have been caused by the wind blowing the wires. Others think that the confusion of the fire alarm was due to some mischevious person who wished to indulge in the dangerous fun of calling the firemen to all parts of the city at once.

Ship's Company Gives Entertainment—The ship's company of the H.M.S. Caroline gave a very pleasant farewell entertainment, consisting of music and theatricals, in the Temperance Hall, Esquimalt, last evening. The superior facilities of a comfortable hall made the entertainment much more enjoyable than the previous affair of the kind given by the people of the Caroline, and it is safe to say that everyone present fully appreciated the delightful affair presented.

Wind and Rain Storm Hits City—About 2 o'clock yesterday morning a heavy wind and rain storm, accompanied by vivid flashes of lightning, visited this city. The storm prevailed at Vancouver and Westminster at nearly the same time, but soon passed over.

Street Cars or Buses?

According to press reports, buses are to replace street cars in Victoria on the expiry of the street railway franchise, December 5, next.

The bus undoubtedly has made a place for itself in the transportation world, but we suggest you

ASK YOURSELF THESE QUESTIONS With Regard to the Local Situation:

1. Will service be extended to the neighboring municipalities? If so, under what terms and conditions?
2. What will be the rate of fare, or fares?
3. Will free universal transfers to all parts of Greater Victoria be available?
4. Will dollar unlimited weekly passes be available?
5. Will the service be of the same efficiency and frequency as that now being provided by the street cars?
6. Will bus fares be subject to increase if operating costs prove to be higher than was at first anticipated?
7. On what basis will municipalities be compensated for wear and tear of their roads?
8. How much money will have to be sent right out of the community every year for fuel and other supplies?
9. Will bus operators and other employees receive union rates of wages?
10. How many all-bus cities are there in Canada?*
11. Is the B.C. Electric willing to continue street car operation in Victoria?

Colonel J. R. Kingham To Assume Command Of Canadian Scottish

Officer Commanding 1st Battalion of Regiment Here Is Raised in Rank—Will Succeed Col. D. R. Sargent, Transferred to Reserve

THE promotion of Lieut.-Col. J. R. Kingham to the rank of colonel and his appointment to command the Canadian Scottish Regiment here was announced last night by the National Defence Department. He succeeds Col. D. R. Sargent, who is transferred to the corps reserve of officers of the regiment.

RETIRING OFFICER

Colonel Sargent, who has commanded the Canadian Scottish Regiment for the past four years, holds a long record of service and his work with the non-permanent active militia has won him well-earned recognition, together with tremendous popularity with all ranks. He enlisted for war service in 1915, joining the machine-gun section of the 53rd Battalion and was transferred to the 5th Battalion, 2nd Brigade, when he reached France. Step by step he rose through the ranks, being a sergeant-major before he gained his commission. In 1919 he was adjutant of "G" Wing, Canadian Demobilization Depot at Bramshott, returning to Canada in August of that year.

In 1922 he joined the 1st Battalion (16th Battalion, C.E.F.) under Colonel Urquhart, commanding a company. Later he became adjutant under Col. D. B. Martyn. He took a prominent part in the formation of the 2nd Battalion, with headquarters at Nanaimo, and later was appointed officer commanding the 2nd Battalion. In 1934 he received command of the regiment with the rank of colonel.

SERVICE RECORD

Colonel Kingham, who succeeds to the command, has a splendid service record. A native son of Victoria, he received his education at the University School, later attending the U.B.C., and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. In 1915 he went overseas with the 88th Battalion and served in France with the 16th Battalion, Canadian Scottish. He was wounded in 1916 and was invalided to Canada.

In 1922 he rejoined the Canadian Scottish with the rank of lieutenant and rose to command of the 1st Battalion in 1934. After a short time on reserve, he is now appointed commanding officer of the regiment that perpetuates the unit with which he served in France.

HERE TO STUDY PUBLIC HEALTH

Head of New Zealand Health Department Making Extensive Tour

Dr. H. M. Watt, Director-General of Health for the Dominion of New Zealand, arrived in Victoria from Seattle yesterday in the course of a tour of the United States, Canada and Europe under the auspices of the Rockefeller Foundation, for the purpose of studying public health administration and practices in various parts of the world.

Dr. Watt, who has held his present office in the service of the New Zealand Government for the past eight years, is particularly interested in social security. While in Victoria he will discuss British Columbia social security proposals with the officials interested and also will study the form of health administration in Vancouver. A social security law was recently passed in Dr. Watt's own Dominion.

The New Zealand visitor will spend three months on this continent, and a further three months in Europe, and will return to New Zealand in May. Already he has spent a few days in San Francisco and Seattle, and will be in Victoria for two or three days, spending most of his time in the Legislative Buildings.

Dr. Watt, who is staying at the Empress Hotel, will meet Dr. Allon Peebles today.

Expresses Hope For Royal Visit To Capital City

An expression of hope that Their Majesties the King and Queen would include Victoria in their tour of Canada next year was conveyed by Mayor Andrew McGavin in the telegram which he dispatched to the Secretary of State in Ottawa. His Worship's message read as follows:

"May I request, please, that you will extend to Their Majesties the King and Queen the loyal greetings of the citizens of Victoria, and express our sincere hope that Their Majesties will be able to visit the capital city of the Pacific Coast Province during their forthcoming visit to the Dominion.

"A large proportion of our population is of British birth, and consequently a royal visit would be a great source of satisfaction. We have been honored by many royal visits in the past, and trust that we may again have this privilege."

Little Stories for Bedtime

Good News and Bad News

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Peter Rabbit had told Winsome Bluebird all the news of the Green Meadows and the Green Forest—how Mrs. Grouse had nearly lost her life in a cruel snare, how Reddy Fox had been caught by Farmer Brown's boy and then had fooled him and run away with a chicken, how Farmer Brown's boy had been very good to everybody, and all the things he could think of that had happened while Winsome had been in the sunny southland. When he had told all the news he could think of and that little Mrs. Peter could remind him of he began to ask questions himself.

"How Was Everybody When You Started Away From the Sunny Southland?" Asked Peter.

"How was everybody when you started away from the sunny southland?" asked Peter.

"Fine, but anxious to get back home here and get to housekeeping," replied Winsome. "You know, this is really home up here. We only visit down there, and visiting gets rather tiresome after a while. So everybody is anxious to get back here. Besides it isn't as safe down there as it is up here."

Peter pricked up his ears. "Why not?" he demanded. This was news indeed.

"Men," replied Winsome sadly. "In some places down there we are never safe from men with terrible guns. Up here we are safe. Anyway we are fairly safe. There is only a short hunting season and that is after most of us have gone away. And then it is only a few like Bob White and Mrs. Grouse and Quacker the Duck who are hunted. But down there nobody is ever safe unless it is Mistah Mocker the Mocking Bird. Down there, he is the best loved of all the birds. So they don't bother him much. Ol' Mistah Buzzard has been perfectly safe until recently. In fact it has been the habit of Ol' Mistah Buzzard and his relatives to warm their toes on the chimney tops for ever so long, and men have seemed to like having them around. But this last Winter Ol' Mistah Buzzard has been pretty much worried. Yes, sir, he certainly has. I don't know how he heard it but somehow, somewhere, he found out that these men folks whom he has all along looked on as friends have about decided he has lived long enough and that there shall be no more buzzards in the sunny southland. It is hard to believe, but Ol' Mistah Buzzard says it is so, and he was planning to leave down there earlier than usual because he said he wouldn't feel safe until he got back up here."

Peter's eyes were wide with something very like unbelief. It was very plain to see that he was having hard work to accept as true what Winsome Bluebird had said. "That would be dreadful," he gasped. "I like Ol' Mistah Buzzard. He never harms anyone, and he tells the nicest stories. I-I hope he will get here all right."

"He'll get here, I am sure," replied Winsome. "The question is will it be safe for him to go back next Fall? I saw Welcome Robin a few days ago and Little Friend the Song Sparrow. Both told me to tell you that they will be along in a few days."

"Hurrah!" cried Peter. "It will be good to hear and see them again. I suppose they are well."

"Middling so," replied Winsome. "Welcome Robin has had a hard time ever since he started on the long journey. He has had to watch out for those terrible guns even more than some of the rest of us."

Peter threw up both hands in horror. "What do they hunt him for?" he demanded. "Is it for his coat? It's a nice coat, but it isn't nearly as handsome as yours, Winsome."

"No, it isn't for his coat," Winsome replied. "They hunt him to eat! I don't know what this world is coming to when great big men hunt a little fellow like Welcome Robin to eat. But they do it. And they don't hunt him fairly, either. It is perfectly dreadful some of the things they do. Just ask him about it when he gets here."

"I will. I certainly will," said Peter. And anyone who knows Peter knows that there wasn't the least doubt in the world that he would.

The next story: "Welcome Robin's Long Journey."

HOBBY PICTURES

Any child hobby is full of picture chances. Adult hobbies, too. Picture them as they progress, step by step.

IF you have a son or daughter who is a budding hobbyist, picture the child's progress. A series of these pictures has delightful "story-telling" quality, and will increase in memory value as time passes.

Almost any hobby can be pictured. If your young daughter paints or draws, snap a progressive series of her at her sketch pad or easel. If the boy builds model planes, snap a series of him busy in his workshop fitting parts of the new model. Take pictures that show the progress of the job, from the first stick to the completed plane—and its final flight.

First attempts at golf—first lessons in tennis or swimming—any outdoor sport is full of these picture chances. Picture each stage, and you will treasure these snapshots later on.

Take special care with these pictures, to get just the effect you want. For example, in taking the picture above, a light yellow K-1 filter was used on the camera lens, to darken the blue water and sky and make the white clothing and boat sail "stand out." Fast film was used, and reflections from the water made a short exposure possible—1-50 second at f.11. The picture shows careful thought, and proves that the rule "think before you shoot" is worth observing—whether you are taking hobby snapshots or some other kind.

Hobbies grow and expand, and they should be represented in your picture-history of the family. Take plenty of pictures, showing each new phase and development of your son's or daughter's hobby—and begin taking them now, for tomorrow there will be new stages to picture, while today's opportunities will be past.—John van Guilder.

HIGH HONOR IS BESTOWED

Frank C. Paterson Made Life Member of Telephone Pioneers of America

Life membership in the Telephone Pioneers of America, the highest honor that the telephone industry can bestow, was conferred yesterday upon Frank C. Paterson, the B.C. Telephone Company's former commercial executive for Vancouver Island, who recently retired.

The presentation was made in recognition of Mr. Paterson's long and efficient service in the telephone industry. He had been engaged in the business for more than fifty-one years, and has been identified with the pioneers' association since 1920.

VANCOUVER VISITORS

Stirling Ross, the B.C. Telephone Company's equipment engineer, and a fellow member of the Telephone Pioneers, on behalf of the association, presented the certificate of life membership to Mr. Paterson at a gathering of former co-workers of Mr. Paterson, held in the Empress Hotel last evening.

In addition to Mr. Ross, those present from Vancouver included James Hamilton, vice-president and general manager of the B.C. Telephone Company, and E. P. LaBelle, general superintendent of the company's plant. C. C. Simpson, Mr. Paterson's successor as commercial representative here, had charge of the gathering.

Membership in the Telephone Pioneers of America, an association embracing the United States and Canada, is limited to persons with at least twenty-one years of telephone service.

UNIQUE OCCASION

Mr. Paterson is the only pioneer in the Western provinces to be honored by life membership. He retired from the company on September 1, after more than half a century in the telephone business, half of which was spent in the B.C. Telephone Company's service. Upon relinquishing his duties, employees of the company presented him with a handsome radio.

Before the presentation was made yesterday, Mr. Hamilton referred to the occasion as unique in the history of his company. He mentioned that Mr. Paterson had commenced his career when the industry was in its infancy, less than ten years old, and had contributed to its growth to become an industry having an immense effect on the general structure of society.

Mr. Paterson's acceptance of the certificate was followed by a round of cheers and the singing of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

No letter to the Editor will be inserted except over the proper signature and address of the writer. This rule admits of no exception. No letter should exceed 500 words in length.

CIVIC SUPERANNUATION ACT

Sir,—I would like to draw your attention to an error in your issue of Sunday when it stated that the City Hall staff had disapproved of the proposals put forward by the Government re the above matter. Our meeting is not held until Thursday, the 13th inst., to decide whether we approve it or not.

Thanking you in anticipation, believe me, yours faithfully,

ELDRED E. HARDISTY, President.

MARKETING BOARDS

Sir,—With reference to the several letters that have appeared in your columns re Marketing Boards, it may console your correspondents to know that the activities of those boards are as much objected to in other countries as in B.C. Instance the following item in the Edinburgh Scotsman:

"The practical advantages of oral, as opposed to written, examinations were suggested by Sir William Wright Smith, Regius Keeper of the Royal Botanic Garden, Edinburgh, when he spoke at the Pharmaceutical Conference banquet in the Music Hall, Edinburgh.

"One of the questions which he, as an examiner, had to ask young women attending a certain Scottish institution, who were to enter the nursing profession, was—'What are the advantages of mother's milk over cow's milk for the feeding of infants?' One young woman gave her answer under four heads:

"1—It was cheaper.

"2—It kept over the week-end.

"3—It was out of reach of the cat.

And the climax of them all,

"4—It was beyond the control of the Scottish Milk Marketing Board."

SEATTLE SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

Sir,—Fully aware of the widespread local interest in the annual visits of the Seattle Symphony Orchestra to the city, may I ask space for the following?

In order that certain prominent players in the orchestra may not lose recently made broadcast contracts for Friday evenings, I have been requested to change the date of the orchestra's concert here to the previous evening, namely, Thursday, November 17.

It is felt that in making this change on behalf of the members concerned (all well known to local audiences) the alteration of dates will in no wise affect or diminish the much anticipated return of Seattle's orchestra, either in interest or in attendance.

Eating Delicious Quaker Oats George Parsons Trains for Hockey

Toronto Maple Leaf Star eats Quaker Oats to build Muscles—Strength!
George Parsons says, "I eat Quaker Oats to help build lasting energy and strength." It is known, too, that oatmeal is the richest thrifty source of that precious health and nerve food—"Thiamin" (Vitamin B1). Perfect health is not possible without it. You should have "Thiamin" daily because it is not stored in the body. Quaker Oats contains more protein, the element that builds rugged muscles. The carbohydrates in this cereal give "energy-drive". And, remember, only Quaker Oats contains healthful Vitamin "D".

PRESENT ACT OF TUNEFUL OPERA

First Act of Wallace's "Maritana" Sung by Amateur Group

An index of the keen and ambitious spirit that exists among the singing members of the Victoria Grand Opera Association was seen again last evening in the society's presentation, at its clubrooms, Rockland Avenue, of the first act of William Vincent Wallace's fine old romantic opera, "Maritana."

First produced in London ninety-three years ago, this opera, although it contains so many well-known and tuneful melodies, is not frequently heard in its entirety because of the difficulties which it presents. Those taking the leading roles require voices of good range, dramatic power and endurance, and histrionic ability and vocal technique of no mean ability are also needed for adequate presentation of the roles. The group of amateurs who, under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Basil Horsfall, last night essayed the parts showed serious ambition and threw themselves wholeheartedly into the reading.

CLEVER STAGING

While in size the little stage was barely adequate, the setting was so cleverly devised that the audience carried away the illusion of having seen a corner of a public square in the old city of Madrid, crowded with gypsies, soldiers, and citizens. The costuming was as clever as the staging, picturesque, romantic, rich in coloring, and all quite cleverly lighted. Makeup was quite professional, and the general effect was excellent, showing that side by side with their musical work and acting the society is working on the development of stagecraft.

The very charming part of Maritana was vocally notable, Patsy Swift, a young singer of exceedingly fine promise, carrying the role. Her voice is completely competent for the difficult arias, and has unusually beautiful timbre. Experience will do much to give her the assurance and poise that the part demands, so it was pleasing to learn that the second and third acts of the opera are to be presented in November and December, using the same and some additional singers. David Oldham, who took the part of Don Jose, has a most pleasing voice, and the duets between these two voices were enthusiastically received.

GOOD CHARACTERIZATION

With a good sense of character projection George Farmer took the role of the jovial cavalier, Don Caesar, who will have some good solos in the next two performances. Arthur Jackman also has excellent feeling for characterization, and as captain of the guard sang with pleasing authority. Lesser parts, but effective, were those taken by Olive Batchelor (Lazarillo), William Cobbett (Old Man), and James McVie (Young Soldier). Philip Heal, as King of Spain, will have more important work to do in the remaining acts, during which the audience will hear "In Happy Moments," "There Is a Flower," "Scenes That Are Brightest," and others familiar to old opera-goers.

Costumes were designed by Marjorie Barker, scenery by Hope Large, and the lighting was by Horace Culver. Mr. Horsfall, at the piano, very ably directed and also supplied the "orchestral" part.

Take Your Mirror to the window —look well at your face—others do! How does it pass the test? Ganges Chapter

The monthly meeting of the Ganges Chapter was held at Ganges Inn, the regent, Mrs. Desmond Crofton, in the chair. Mrs. W. T. Burkitt, secretary of the Girl Guide committee, presented her report, which was heard with interest. Mrs. A. J. Shipley placed before the meeting a scheme for obtaining permanent headquarters for the Girl Guides, Cubs and Brownies in co-operation with the chapter. A lengthy discussion on the subject resulted in a committee being elected, including Mrs. W. T. Burkitt, Mrs. H. Loosmore and Mrs. P. Lowther, in addition to Mrs. A. J. Shipley and Mrs. A. R. Layard, of the Cub committee, who were requested to go thoroughly into the matter of ways and means, and bring a report to the next meeting. In response to an urgent plea from Mrs. A. R. Layard and Mrs. A. Inglis with regard to support for the local platoon of the 16th Canadian Scottish, the chapter voted $10 for present expenses and promised assistance at its annual dance. The sum of $5 was voted to the Queen Alexandra Solarium. The prize awarded by the chapter to the scholar making the most progress during the year in high school was presented by the regent to Vernon Drake. Arrangements were made and stall holders elected for the sale of work and tea, to be held today at the home of the secretary, Mrs. E. Walter. Tea hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Desmond Crofton and Mrs. W. Harvey.

The time used is Pacific standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water.

To find the depth of low water on the sill of the Esquimalt drydock, add 18.9 feet to the height of high water as above given.

Attractive Decorations Arranged for Ceremony

The altar in St. Aidan's Church, Mount Tolmie, was banked with flowers and Autumn foliage, and vases of the same blooms were arranged on the window ledges, making an attractive setting for the marriage of Cecelia (Daisy), second daughter of Mr. Hugh Lindsay, Mount Tolmie, and of the late Mrs. Lindsay, and Mr. William Campbell Blackstock, second son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Blackstock, 2337 Howard Street, which took place at 8 o'clock last evening, Rev. T. G. Griffiths officiating.

The choir was in attendance, and Mr. P. Boorman presided at the organ, and as the register was being signed, Miss Barbara Dawson sang "Because."

The bride entered the church with her father and attendants to the strains of the wedding march from "Lohengrin" and as she reached the altar, the choir sang the hymn, "O Perfect Love." She wore a lovely gown of ivory satin veiled in lace, fastened down the back with self-covered buttons. The bodice was finished with an Elizabethan collar and long pointed sleeves, and the skirt extended to a long train. Her embroidered veil of Brussels net was arranged beneath a halo of orange blossoms and net, and she carried a shower bouquet of roses, carnations and sprigs of white heather.

THE ATTENDANTS

Mrs. C. Belfrage (James Island) was her sister's matron of honor, and wore a charming frock of pink net over taffeta, trimmed with velvet polka dots in blending colors. Her hat of taffeta and silk net was trimmed with velvet streamers at the back which reached to the hem of her skirt. Miss Alice Tull, the bridesmaid, wore a redingote frock of blue net over satin and a blue net and velvet toque, and they both carried shower bouquets of roses in shades of pink. Mr. R. Lindsay, the bride's brother, was best man, and the ushers were Mr. C. Belfrage and Mr. Dick Williams.

Gladioli tied with tulle bows marked the guest pews, and slender white arches, entwined with ivy and studded with Michaelmas daisies, white heather and pink dahlias, spanned the aisles.

Mr. Lindsay entertained about two hundred guests in the church hall, after the service, which was beautifully decorated with masses of flowers and greenery, and festoons of pale pink crepe paper. Assisting the host in receiving the guests were the bridegroom's mother, in a brown satin dress with lace sleeves, and a brown plume-trimmed hat, and Mrs. A. J. Trounson, in a frock of teal blue georgette over figured silk, and a matching velour hat with a feather mount. Mrs. Blackstock and Mrs. Trounson both wore corsage bouquets of roses.

ATTRACTIVE DECORATIONS

During the reception, the bride and groom stood under a lovely arch of Autumn tinted foliage and gladioli, between tall brass shells holding bronze-hued gladioli. Vases of Baby Royal dahlias in crystal vases and tall pink tapers adorned the supper tables, and the bride's cake stood under a large white illuminated bell, the handiwork of Mrs. George Turner, an old family friend.

The couple left at midnight for a honeymoon trip to Vancouver, Seattle and Portland, the bride going away in a wine pebble crepe frock trimmed with silk fringe, matching accessories and a muskrat coat. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Blackstock will make their home on Dean Heights.

Norma Shearer and Tyrone Power Head All-Star Cast of "Marie Antoinette."

The long-awaited presentation of "Marie Antoinette," one, if not the most ambitious film effort since the advent of talking pictures, is the exciting and ambitious film fare which will open today at the Capitol Theatre.

Four years in preparation at a cost of millions, with a noteworthy cast headed by Norma Shearer and Tyrone Power in the romantic leads, the film boasts a total of 152 players, with a supporting cast of thousands, including Robert Morley, Anita Louise, Gladys George, Henry Stephenson, Cora Witherspoon and Joseph Schildkraut.

SAGA OF SEAS IS ON ATLAS SCREEN

"Spawn of the North" Here With George Raft, Henry Fonda and Dorothy Lamour

The screen's first great saga of the men who plough the Arctic seas in search of Alaska's "silver horde" of salmon is told in "Spawn of the North," which will start today at the Atlas Theatre.

With George Raft, Henry Fonda and Dorothy Lamour heading an all-star cast, it tells of the titanic struggle between fishermen and sea pirates for control of the waters off the Alaskan Coast, and the tragic experience of two lifelong friends ranged against each other in the final battle.

It was directed by Henry Hathaway, who brought "Lives of a Bengal Lancer" to the screen.

COLUMBIA OFFERS STORY OF WEST

"Gold Mine in the Sky" Stars Gene Autry As Ranch Foreman With Notable Cast

"Gold Mine in the Sky," which will open today at the Columbia Theatre, is the story of a young Eastern miss who comes out West to run her father's ranch. Gene Autry, in the role of the ranch foreman, however, has something to say about that.

The picture has an excellent supporting cast, with names such as Smiley Burnette, Carol Hughes, Craig Reynolds, Leroy Mason, Robert Homans, the Stafford Sisters, the Golden West Cowboys, Frankie Marvin, and many others.

ICE HOCKEY TALE BOOKED BY PLAZA

John Wayne and Sheila Bromley Play Leading Roles in "Idol Of the Crowds

A thrilling love story framed against an ice hockey background, "Idol of the Crowds," will open today at the Plaza Theatre, with John Wayne and Sheila Bromley in the leading roles.

The picture deals with the adventures of a handsome young amateur ice hockey star, who is lured to the professional rink through necessity—the necessity of obtaining $10,000 to insure a life of happiness with the woman he loves.

Wayne and Miss Bromley are supported by an outstanding cast of favorites, including Charles Brokaw, Billy Burrud, Virginia Brissac, Russell Hopton, George Lloyd, Huntley Gordon and Clem Bevins.

MUSICAL COMEDY MADE INTO FILM

"The Lilac Domino" Comes to Oak Bay Screen with Michael Bartlett, Tenor

Originally produced at the old Empire in Leicester Square in 1918, "The Lilac Domino," which will open today at the Oak Bay Theatre, ran for two years, and for several years afterwards provincial touring companies reaped rich harvests from its tuneful music and sparkling libretto.

In the film the leading roles are taken by Michael Bartlett, the golden-voiced American tenor, and June Knight, the musical comedy star. They make a charming team and succeed admirably in conveying the light-hearted gaiety of the frothy story.

First Church Ladies Help Group Funds

An elaborate "sit-down" silver tea organized by Group "B" of the Women's Association of First United Church attracted a large number of ladies to the schoolroom of the church yesterday afternoon.

While seated about the charmingly-decked tables with their pretty bowls of pink "Charm" dahlias and Michaelmas daisies, each table with its assigned hostesses, the guests listened to a pointed, practical, and, at the same time, spiritual Thanksgiving message by Dr. Henrietta Anderson, delivered in her characteristically pungent style. Later there was a short musical programme, consisting of vocal solos by Mrs. Gordon McCurdy and pianoforte numbers by Miss Eileen Bowles.

The reception committee comprised Mrs. J. A. Skellern, president of Group "B"; Mrs. H. A. McLeod, wife of the pastor, and Mrs. A. S. Christie, president of the Women's Association. Tea conveners were Mrs. C. N. Westwood, Mrs. J. R. Nicholson, and Mrs. J. P. Walker, and pourers were Mesdames R. W. Mayhew, Walter M. Walker, J. H. Fletcher, W. C. Fyfe, G. F. Gregory, F. W. Laing, S. J. Drake, Wallace Wilson, A. S. Denny, and W. T. Straith.

A sale of home-cooking supplemented the receipts, which will go to the general upkeep of the church, those in charge of the cakes and other supplies being Mesdames J. H. Lane, Stevens, W. S. Dawson and L. MacDonnell.

The platform was also artistically decorated with zinnias, goldenrod, Michaelmas daisies and other flowers arranged by Mrs. Westwood and her committee.

GOOD BREEZE IS PROMISED

Weather Soothsayers Predict Fresh Westerly Wind For Today's Race

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 12 (AP).—With a freshing southwesterly breeze promised by the weather soothsayers, the two fastest fishing schooners afloat tomorrow will continue their battle for the sailing championship of the North Atlantic.

The contenders are Captain Angus Walters' Bluenose, from Lunenburg, N.S., defender of the International Fishermen's Trophy, and Captain Ben Pine's challenger, Gertrude L. Thebaud, from Gloucester.

Thebaud won the first race of the best-of-five series, Sunday, sailing twice around an eighteen-mile triangle. Yesterday the schooners failed to finish inside the time limit while traveling once around a thirty-six-mile triangle.

Absence of a breeze yesterday and today kept the international sailing classic in the doldrums. After being towed out to the starting line this morning through a glassy sea, the schooners were towed back again in time to participate in the dedication of Gloucester's new State fish pier.

The race scheduled for tomorrow called for a forty-mile course, consisting of a thirty-mile triangle with a five-mile "tail." A six-hour time limit has been set.

BREEZE DRIVES TROLLERS HOME

Disabled Craft Boneda Is Taken In Tow by Coast Guard Lifeboat

ASTORIA, Ore., Oct. 12 (AP).—Struggling against racing seas at the mouth of the Columbia River with a broken rudder and a dead motor, the troller Boneda reached port last night under tow of the coast guard lifeboat Triumph.

Guardsmen picked up the Grays Harbor, Wash., craft and its crew of three men outside the bar as a sixty-mile wind threatened to carry them into the breakers. Coast guard amphibian planes had sought the ship since Monday night.

The first high winds of the season drove the Albacore tuna fleet into Astoria for protection. More than .75 of an inch of rain fell in a few hours. The storm tied up general shipping activities at the river's mouth.

"Spent your vacation on your uncle's farm, eh? Any fly fishing up that way?"

"No; swatting."

SUPERANNUATE SENIOR PURSER

Arthur W. Bird Concludes Thirty-Five Years With Coastal Ship Service

Arthur H. Bird, senior purser of the B.C. Coast Service, has been retired on superannuation after thirty-five years of steamboating. His last ship was the Ss. Princess Charlotte, operating on the Alaska run. Becoming ill in July last, he came ashore and entered St. Joseph's Hospital.

Since joining the service thirty-five years ago, Mr. Bird has been purser on nearly all the ships of the local coastal service. Born at Staines, Middlesex, England, in November, 1873, at the age of twenty he joined the Royal Garrison Artillery. In the army for three years, serving at various places, including Esquimalt, he left it to become associated with the C.P.N. Company in 1903 as assistant to J. S. Byrom, port steward.

Among the steamers Mr. Bird has served aboard were the R. P. Rithet, Otter, Queen City, Charmer, City of Nanaimo and Amur. In 1930 he was one of twelve cruise directors accompanying the Ss. Empress of Scotland on a Mediterranean outing. He is well known along the Pacific Coast and was a popular and efficient ship official with the traveling public as well as his shipmates.

GREAT MOVEMENT OF FRESH FRUIT

Carriers With Capacity of 7,126,031 Boxes of Apples Fixed to Load for Europe

SEATTLE, Oct. 12 (AP).—Seventeen steamship lines, anticipating an exceptionally heavy movement of fresh fruit to the Old World, have scheduled 136 refrigerated carriers with a total capacity of 7,126,031 boxes of apples to load at Seattle and other Northwest ports from October through February.

Loading ports include Seattle, Portland, Tacoma, New Westminster, B.C., and Vancouver, B.C., while major ports of the United Kingdom, the Continent, Scandinavia and the Mediterranean will receive the products.

During the last quarter of the present year, the movement will be extremely heavy as ninety-one ships with a total capacity of 5,147,750 boxes call.

RUNNING TRIALS LATER IN MONTH

H.M.C.S. Comox, Vancouver-Built Minesweeper, Expected to Develop Speed of 12.5 Knots

VANCOUVER, Oct. 12 (CP).—H.M.C.S. Comox, minesweeper now nearing completion at Burrard Dry-dock Company plant for use in British Columbia waters, will undergo her trials late this month, it was learned today.

H.M.C.S. Comox is 160 feet long overall, with a beam of 27 feet 6 inches and draught of 14 feet 6 inches. The vessel will have a speed of 12.5 knots.

She will be fitted with salvage pumps, the latest mine-sweeping equipment and mount a four-inch quick-fire gun on the forecastle.

CLOSING FOR THREE WEEKS

Part-Time Layoff Is Decided On by Canadian Pacific Railway Officials

MONTREAL, Oct. 12 (CP).—Main shops of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company throughout Canada will be closed for three weeks—October 24 to November 14—it was announced today. The decision was disclosed in a brief statement made public by the company:

"After a conference between the company's officers and representatives of its shop employees throughout the system, an amicable agreement was reached that all main shops will be closed for a three-week period—October 24 to November 14—rather than to effect reductions in working forces at the present time."

The announcement was made following a closed conference between company officials and representatives of 13,000 unionized shop employees who had been advised of plans for a part-time lay-off to reduce expenses.

Previous plans, designed to make up for reduced traffic, had called for employees to take off seven days without pay between the present time and December 31.

Decline to Give Any Information About War Craft

HALIFAX, Oct. 12 (CP).—Canada's two new destroyers, Ottawa and Restigouche, put to sea today, but naval authorities declined to reveal their destination. At the same time H.M.C.S. Fundy, one of the new minesweepers ordered by the Dominion Government, put to sea for a trial spin and gunnery practice.

FISHERMAN HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Steveston Gillnetter Clinging To Submerged Craft When Rescued by Easthope

RICHMOND, B.C., Oct. 12 (CP).—James Hudson, gillnet fisherman of nearby Steveston, narrowly escaped drowning early today when his fishing boat sank in the Fraser River about a mile and a half below here.

Hudson told police that two or three fishermen passed in their crafts while he was hanging to the mast of his sinking ship, but they ignored him.

"I hollered," he said, "but they went right by. They couldn't have helped but see me."

"I was coming in with a load of fish that I'd caught during the night," Hudson told police here. "I was steering from outside and I saw steam coming from the cabin.

"I left the wheel and went to see what it was. I found the cabin awash.

"Before I could do anything she started to go down."

The coastal ship Easthope came as Hudson clung to the almost submerged ship. It drew alongside and picked him up, bringing him to shore.

Decide Stunting Close to Ground Caused Accident

LANGLEY PRAIRIE, B.C., Oct. 12 (CP).—A coroner's jury has decided stunting too close to the ground caused the Sunday airplane death of Arthur Reynard, pilot, and Edward Rashleigh, passenger.

The two young men, both residents of communities in the Lower Fraser Valley, died when their yellow two-seater went into a spin and crashed near an emergency landing field a mile east of this town and fifteen miles east of New Westminster.

Yesterday the jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

VETERAN SEA CAPTAIN DIES IN CALIFORNIA

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12 (AP).—Capt. John G. Moreno, sixty-five, member of the San Francisco Board of Pilot Commissioners and veteran sea captain, died in a San Francisco hospital today of a six weeks' illness.

NOTICE TO MARINERS

Passenger-Carrying Service May Start in November

REGINA, Oct. 12 (CP).—Trans-Canada Air Lines likely will be carrying passengers between Winnipeg and Vancouver by the end of November, according to Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Transport, who was in Regina yesterday.

The service would be ready for passenger carrying as soon as construction is completed on two range stations in British Columbia at Carmi and Nelson, Mr. Howe said.

What Today Means

"LIBRA"

If October 13 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:15 to 11:15 a.m.; from 1:15 to 3:15 p.m., and from 7:15 to 9:15 p.m. The danger periods are from 5:15 to 9:15 a.m.; from 5:15 to 7:15 p.m., and from 9:15 to 1:15 p.m.

The average person is likely to have very decided and strongly fixed ideas this day. Voluntary advice is not apt to be appreciated, and may arouse a feeling of antagonism. It might be advisable to exercise the greatest amount of tact in offering suggestions for a radical departure from any fixed line of procedure. There may exist a spirit of strong opposition to any kind of innovation. A sense of self-sufficiency will be largely responsible for many people appearing extremely egotistical, and give the impression that they are decidedly overbearing in their attitude towards others. Be careful that your personal attitude is not misinterpreted. Conditions appear to be most favorable for making a conservative type of investment, real estate transactions, and financial negotiations. A feeling of confidence prevailing between buyers and sellers ought to stimulate trading. Married and engaged couples, and those who are hopeful of finding the way and means for an early engagement, must be optimistic this day if they wish to appear to the best advantage.

If a woman and October 13 is your birthday, you probably are very affable and easy-going. Homelife will be conducive to the greatest amount of happiness. You should be wise enough to recognize your own faults and be able to correct them. Your sense of humor perhaps will endear you to a large circle of friends. You are not apt to have much difficulty in satisfying any social aspirations. Whether in office or home your executive ability, in all likelihood, will be recognized. As a dietician, technician, trained nurse, business woman, artist, author, playwright or actress your achievements may be outstanding. Your matrimonial prospects are bright, as there is every indication that there should be complete accord between your husband and yourself.

The child born on October 13, many times has more of the mother's characteristics than the father's. This youngster's outstanding qualities generally include a refreshing amount of frankness, a high degree of courage and self-control. Auspicious conditions seem likely to give this youngster the right start in life, with no indication of any serious interferences in its journey towards success.

If a man and October 13 is your natal day, you perhaps have a silver tongue and a golden voice, so as an orator, singer, lawyer, actor, clergyman, statesman or radio announcer your opportunities to win fame seem to be unlimited.

DOMINOES DEFEAT NORTHWESTERN IN CAGE BATTLE

Eastern Lacrosse Champions Defeat Adanac Team, 10-7

St. Catharines Trim New Westminster Boxla Squad In Three Straight Games for Canadian Championship and the Mann Cup—Winners Score Five Goals in Last Period

By RICHARD SHERIDAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Oct. 12 (CP). — The Mann Cup and the senior lacrosse championship of Canada were brought back to the East tonight when St. Catharines Athletics defeated New Westminster's youthful Adanacs, 10-7, for their third straight victory in the Dominion final.

Famed for their final-quarter rallies, Athletics came from behind to rap in five goals in the fourth period. It was St. Catharines' closest margin of victory in the best-of-five series. The eastern titlists won the first game Friday, 18-11, and doubled the score, 22-11, in the second game Monday.

Adanacs put up a game struggle as they made a last-ditch stand to retain the cup won last year by another New Westminster team, the Salmonbellies. They led, 3-2, after the first quarter, 6-4 at half-time and still retained a one-goal lead entering the final quarter.

Bun Barnard, St. Catharines defenceman, opened the final session with a goal at the fifteen-second mark to even the score. The westerners attacked strongly and Gord Saunders again put them into the lead after five minutes.

ADANACS TIRE

But from then until the final whistle Athletics rang up goals with clock-like regularity at two-minute intervals. Adana could not respond. They had played themselves out trying to beat an older, heavier and better team.

St. Catharines' goals were well distributed. Barnard and Pank Morton each scored twice and Gus Madsen, George Urquhart, George Hope, Joe Cheevers, Bill Wilson and Bill Fitzgerald once each.

Big Bob Lee, sharp-shooting defenceman, scored three New Westminster goals. Bob Phelan, Punk Kennedy, Gord Saunders and Lorne Steele each garnered one.

New Westminster trotted out two juniors, Dutch Haddon and Lorne Steele, and the youngsters injected steam in the efforts of their lagging teammates. Smallest crowd of the series, 4,499 paying fans, attended.

Helleniqua Leads Field in Annual Newmarket Event

French Horse Wins Cambridgeshire Race by a Head Atfer Thrilling Finish—Khasnadar, the Favorite, Finishes Second—Bookmakers Rejoice Over Outsider Winning Race

NEWMARKET, England, Oct. 12 (CP).—French breeders scored a clean sweep in the ninety-ninth running of the Cambridgeshire Stakes today, when Jacques Meller's Helleniqua, a tiny mare rated no better than 130 to 1, led two other French-bred candidates to the post.

The exciting finish was the battle of a David and a Goliath as Helleniqua, so small she would be eligible for pony races, held off the challenge of Kingsley Macomber's Khasnadar, the largest horse in the field of twenty-nine and an 8-to-1 favorite, to win by a head. J. A. Swan's Domaha, a head behind Khasnadar, was third. Time was 1:51 4-5.

It was the first French victory in the Cambridgeshire since Palais Royal won ten years ago. Bookmakers declared they had never had a better race, the victory of an outsider being coupled with the scratching of the heavily-backed pre-post favorite, Michoumy. They estimated the race cost the public the best part of £1,000,000.

Helleniqua's owner, Jacques Meller, bred her himself, by Agathos out of Hallatte, and prior to today's race, worth about £6,600 ($30,000), had won 200,000 francs ($5,400).

Tom Westhead, owner of Punch, a well-fancied candidate for the Cesarewitch, to be run later this month, had coupled his horse with Helleniqua in the "Autumn double" and will win a fortune if Punch also finishes first.

GLOOMY WEATHER

The race was run in gloomy weather, but the drizzle failed to soften up the course appreciably. The field got off to a good start, the early leaders being Domaha and Carlisle on the far side, the Frenchman Desiderio in the centre, and Gainly, Thankerton and Khasnadar on the stand side.

LEADS AT HALF

Domaha led at the halfway mark, ahead of Carlisle, with Bombay Duck and Couvert, in the centre, prominent. Zaimis was just behind, with Desiderio, Khasnadar and Quartier Maitre going best along the stand rails.

Coming into the dip, Couvert challenged Domaha, while on the stand side there was little between Helleniqua, Khasnadar and Edgehill. Domaha weakened in meeting the rising ground. Khasnadar then challenged Helleniqua, the latter getting past the post first.

Couvert was fourth; Edgehill, fifth; Golden Sovereign, sixth; Quartier Maitre, seventh, and Agincourt, eighth.

LES PATRICK WORKING OUT THE RANGERS

Boss of New York Club Drilling Prospects at Winnipeg Arena

WINNIPEG, Oct. 12 (CP).—Accent will be on youth when New York Rangers open the 1938-39 National Hockey League season.

Lester Patrick's Broadway blueshirts opened training operations here today and oldest man on the ice was thirty-year-old Cecil Dillon. Youngest players are Mac Colville and Babe Pratt, both twenty-two. Goalie Davie Kerr and Defenceman Art Coulter are the only members of the tentative Ranger line-up who have not graduated from the New York farm system.

Kerr came to Rangers from Montreal Maroons, and Coulter was obtained from Chicago Black Hawks. All others climbed to the majors by way of New York Rovers, of the Eastern United States Amateur League, or Philadelphia Ramblers, of the International American League. Ramblers also opened Fall training today.

Patrick and Coach Herb Gardiner, of Ramblers, sent twenty-seven members of the combined squads through a light drill, chiefly centred on skating and stickhandling.

OTHER MEMBERS

All members of both teams will be here Saturday. Neil Colville and Bill Carse, of Edmonton, are expected tomorrow, and Cliff Barton, of Port Arthur, will arrive Saturday. Six members of the amateur Rovers will work out with the professionals, including Alf Pike, Albert Collings, Lloyd Ailsby, Walter Rimstad, Bill Allum and Goalie Harold (Tiger) Mitchell.

Rangers working out today included Forwards Cecil Dillon, Mac Colville, Alex Shibicky, Phil Watson, Lynn Patrick, Clint Smith, Bryan Hextall, Dutch Hiller and Bobby Kirk.

Art Coulter, Ott Heller, Babe Pratt and Joe Cooper made up the defence, and Dave Kerr was in goal.

Normie Mann, Charley Mason, Kilby Macdonald, Lude Wareing, Joe Krol, Butch Keeling, Lloyd Roubell and George Allen formed the Rambler front lines, with Murray Patrick, Larry Molyneaux, Hugh Gustafson and Babe Tapin on the defence. Bert Gardiner was the goalkeeper. Allen spent last season with New Haven, Eagles, in the International American League, while Tapin performed with Atlantic City Seagulls in the Eastern United States amateur circuit.

Trio of Matches Carded Saturday

Three more games are on the programme for the Intermediate Football League teams on Saturday afternoon, Secretary Fred Oliver announced yesterday. At Bullen Park, the Longshoremen will stack up against the Navy with Harry Holness as referee, while Caveys will meet Camerons at Central Park with Borde in charge. Young Liberals, last season's champions, will take on the Cooperage with Fred Saunders handling the whistle at Lower Beacon Hill. All games will start at 2:30.

RUGBY WORKOUT

Canadian Scottish intermediate ruggers will hold their final pre-game workout this evening at Macdonald Park at 7 o'clock. The following players are asked to attend: P. Martin, D. Addy, R. Ngal, R. Edmonds, A. Fraser, D. Garrison, Skeets, Jones, V. Sorenson, Luxton, J. Mair, J. Cadwell H. McDonald, J. McCorcall, E. Bray, S. Whittingham, B. Knowles and J. Holland. All other players interested in playing with the regiment are invited to attend.

To Open Training

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 12 (CP).—Advance guard of the Cleveland Barons, of the International-American League, arrived here tonight to open pre-season training drills on Friday under Coach Bill Cook.

Veterans Harry Foster, Bud Cook and Recruit Sonny Hemming, former Moose Jaw goalie who played with Prince Albert Minots in the Saskatchewan Big Six League, were first to arrive of the nineteen seasoned pros and twenty amateurs who will seek berths.

CHAPMAN AND ROWE LEAD CLUB TO WIN IN OPENING TUSSLE

Score Twenty-Five Points Between Them Against Creamery Squad in the Senior League Curtain Raiser to Gain 39-25 Decision—Unitys and Eight Aces Win Preliminaries

All the world loves a fighter, and that probably explains just why the enthusiastic "first night" basketball crowd that was on hand last night at the Victoria High School gymnasium had a warm spot in their hearts for the Northwestern Creamery cagers.

Making their debut in senior "A" company and battling against Victoria's Dominoe hoop machine, the creamerymen staged a game fight to go down to defeat by 14 points. The final score read: Dominoes 39, Northwestern Creamery 25.

Superior markmanship, especially by Art Chapman, Dominoes' tip-off ace, and lanky Hank Rowe, running guard, was responsible in no little way for the downfall of the creamery boys. Chapman caged 14 points and Rowe 11, for a total of 25, equal to the Northwestern's total tally for the evening.

Fast, bitterly fought and exciting from start to finish, the game was a real Donnybrook, with the red-shirted creamerymen battling like Trojans against a more experienced, taller and smarter band of hoopmen. Dominoes won the struggle by a 14-point margin, but there was never a moment when the former Canadian champions pulled a single punch. They were forced to fight for everything, and at times it was no easy matter to get points.

TERRIFIC PACE

Both teams set a terrific pace and at stages play was rough and ragged, but the opening night crowd of 500 fans seemed to be enjoying every moment of the struggle. Some idea of the rugged play can be gained from the fact that no less than thirty-four personal fouls were called by Bill Levy and Bob Macmurchie, the arbiters. Northwestern Creamery drew the largest number, being penalized nineteen times, to the Dominoes' fifteen.

Four players, Hank Rowe and "Red" Davies from the winners, and Ralph Shepherd and Doug Bray went off on personals in the final half.

Dominoes set up a 5-0 lead before the Northwestern Creamery quintette, with many shots at the hoop, scored. The eventual winners kept in front for the first fifteen minutes before the creamerymen, by sheer determination and fight, finally forged to the front at 12-11. Shortly after, the rest interval arrived, with the scoreboard reading: Northwestern Creamery 14; Dominoes 12.

Soon after the start of the final session Art Chapman knotted the score at 14-14, and then put his teammates in front at 15-14. Ralph Shepherd tossed home a long one and again the Northwestern quintette took the lead at 16-15. This was the last time during the game that the creamery boys were in front, and after Art Chapman scored the Dominoes stayed on the right end of the count for the remainder of the tussle, finally winning 39-25.

COATES HIGH MAN

Carl Coates, a former member of the Dominoes, led the Northwestern Creamery into action against his old teammates and, incidentally, topped the losers' scoring brigade with 6 points.

Playing in the second game on the card, Eight Aces, last season's intermediate "B" boys' city champions, made their intermediate "A" debut with an impressive 32-23 triumph over the Y.M.C.A. The eventual winners led 21-9 at the halfway interval.

Running in eighteen points to their opponents' six in the last half, Unitys defeated the Adverts, 26-15, in the curtain-raiser, a women's exhibition fixture.

Teams and individual scores follow:

Dominoes—Davies (3), Jackson (2), Mylrea (2), Taylor (5), Mottishaw, A. Chapman (14), Rowe (11), C. Chapman (2) and Hicks. Total, 39.

Northwestern Creamery—Bray (5), Mylrea (2), Shepherd (5), Lovell (3), Whyte (4), Purdy, Hornsby and Coates (6). Total, 25.

Eight Aces—Acreman (12), W. Price, R. Price (6), Smith, Clegg (4), Whitfield (6) and Webster (5). Total, 33.

Y.M.C.A. — Partinson (2), Palin (2), Martin (6), Lindgren (2), McCorkell (8), Henry, Sparks (1) Dickson and Masters (2). Total, 23

Unitys—C. Reid (2), E. Snyder (4), J. Metcalf (2), E. Peden (6) E. Mason (2), D. Crowe (10), F. Robertson and P. Goodward Total, 26.

Adverts—D. Fuller (1), M. Harneti (3), M. McDonald (4), J. McDonald (2), F. Kennedy (1), D. Woodburn, J. Pearce, G. Anderin, A. Taylor (3) and D. Caley (1). Total, 15.

TONIGHT'S GAME

Three games will be played this evening at the High School gymnasium as six clubs make their first appearances in the 1938-39 campaigns, with intermediate "A" boys, senior "C" men's and senior "B" men's quintettes schedued to see action.

The card follows:

7:15 — Intermediate "A" boys, Ramblers vs. Bees.

8:15—Senior "C" men, Spencers vs. C.C.F.

9:15—Senior "B" men, Chinese Students vs. Wimpy's Crescents.

Celtic Back in First Position In Soccer Loop

GLASGOW, Oct. 12 (CP). — Celtic went to the top of the Scottish Football League table today by defeating Queen of the South, 5-1, at Parkhead. The victory gave the Celts seventeen points, one more than Glasgow Rangers and two more than the losing team.

The match, originally scheduled for October 8, was postponed when Celtic permitted four of its players to participate in an international match between Scotland and Ireland at Belfast.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT . . . . . By Ripley

EXPLANATION FOR YESTERDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON

Christopher Columbus—Christopher Columbus first landed in the New World on the Island of San Salvador, October 12, 1492. On the same voyage he visited the islands of Rum Cay, Long Island, Crooked Island and Cuba, but did not come near the mainland. On his second voyage, in 1493, Columbus visited and named the West Indian Islands of Dominica, Marie Galante, Guadalupe, Monteserrat, Antigua, San Martin, the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico, but did not get as close to North America as on his first voyage.

On the third voyage, in 1498, he sailed very near to South America, landing on the island he named Trinidad, the South American mainland, but thought the land he saw was but a series of islands and he gave all the land peninsulas island names. On his fourth voyage, in 1502-1503, he visited the West Indies again, and sailed west to the north coast of Honduras and landed on the Island of Guanaja. From this point he sailed all along the coast of the mainland of what is now Central America down to South America, but he went back to the islands of West Indies and back to Spain without having set foot on either North or South America. And to his death he believed he had discovered a new route to India, instead of a New World.

His name was not Columbus but Cristobal Colon. He always referred to himself as such. In his will he provided that no one could inherit his fortune unless his name be Colon. Pope Alexander addressed him in Latin as his "filius Christopherus Colon." When, eighty years after the Almirante's death, his entailed estate was liquidated for lack of a direct heir, a man by the name of Balthazar Columbus came forward to claim his fortune, the papal tribunal and the highest court of Spain, after long deliberations and testimony, decided that Columbus and Colon were two different names entirely unrelated to each other.

Chickens Wear Green Glasses—Chicken fanciers have discovered that fitting chickens with goggles that prevent them from seeing straight ahead, restrains them from pecking at each other and from fighting. At the Goodwill Industries Summer Camp, Athol, Mass., Rhode Island Red chickens have been equipped with green glasses. The glasses are attached by passing a thin wire through a thin membrane on the beak, which, it is said, can be done without discomfort to the bird.

TELLS STORY OF DISASTER

and his family fled still is standing, but the house of Frank Labelle, where they sought safety, was burned to the ground.

SUFFER SEVERE BURNS

William and Noah suffered burns to hands and face. Frank, however, suffered the most. Flames bit into his flesh as he fought to save William's children and as he rushed his truck through the fire to get his eleven-year-old daughter Maxine to hospital with other injured. Maxine died shortly after reaching Fort Frances on Tuesday.

Mrs. Frank Labelle, from her hospital cot, said the "fire came all at once."

"Before we knew it, we were surrounded," she added. "It was awful. I had a pocketbook and some clothes burned right out of my hands. The children were all around us. We were trapped."

AS YOU WERE

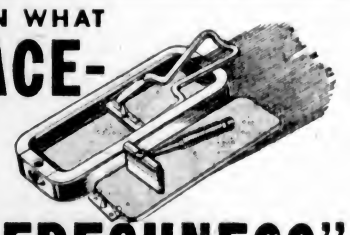

A Scots actor came to London and took lodgings. With his morning cup of tea the landlady sent up two thin slices of bread and butter. He complained.

The next day she sent up three slices, but still he complained. The third day she cut a loaf in two, put a quarter of a pound of butter on each slab and sent them up. When he came down she asked, defiantly: "Bread and butter all right?"

"Aye, no' so bad," the Scotsman replied, "but ye've gone back to two slices."

Then there is the fable about the musical genius who gave the best years of his life to perfect a melody. At last success came and it was adopted as the theme song for a cereal company broadcast.

WHEAT FUTURES BOOSTED HIGHER

WINNIPEG, Oct. 12 (P)—Unexpected firmness at Liverpool and comparatively light offerings combined to boost Winnipeg wheat prices nearly a cent today but support failed to hold and values closed 1-8 to 3-8 cents higher.

Canadian wheat export business was estimated at less than 100,000 bushels.

The October future closed at 60 1-8, November 60 3-8, December 59 3-4 and May 63 1-4 cents.

United States markets were on holiday and intermarket spreading was at a standstill. Buenos Aires also was holidaying.

Reports of dry weather in Australia caused improved buying at Liverpool and resulted in a 1 3-4 to 1 7-8d gains.

Interest in cash wheat was at a low ebb with spreads on Red Springs and Durums generally unchanged. Coarse grain sales also was small. Exporters and shippers showed some interest in oats and barley.

Minor Changes In Assessments Made by Court

Minor adjustments in the valuations of improvements were made at a sitting of the city court of revision on the assessment roll for 1939, held yesterday morning under the chairmanship of Mayor Andrew McGavin. The court had been adjourned from October 1, and it is probable that two further sittings will be held before the hearing of the list of appeals is completed.

The list placed before the court yesterday contained thirty-nine appeals, of which ten were heard. In all cases the assessments on land were sustained. Small reductions were made in improvement assessments in some cases, and in others the valuations of improvements were ordered to stand.

A further sitting of the court will be held today.

LADYSMITH BOARD SEEKS SIDEWALK

Representations to Be Made for Construction of Road to Shell Beach

LADYSMITH, Oct. 12.—Years of periodic requests to have the public works department undertake construction of a sidewalk on Bayview Road, the suburban part of the Island Highway at Ladysmith, have proved unavailing, so the Board of Trade at the regular meeting Tuesday, decided to renew the request. The road serves an area that is becoming increasingly popular for residential sites, and pedestrians are forced to walk on the highway in constant menace from fast-moving traffic.

The well-known scenic shore across the harbor from the city, Shell Beach, can now be reached by the really adventurous motorist. Logging operations in the section have opened a road of sorts to tidewater within a few hundred feet of the beach. With a view to making a beautiful holiday resort available to the general motorist, and at the same time to absorb some of the district relief work on a constructive project that has been discussed for years, the board of trade will make representations to have the present tractor trail made into a usable road.

Ed Heyes, secretary to the board for the past year, submitted his resignation, owing to his lack of the necessary time to attend to the duties. The board expressed appreciation of his work, and a new secretary will be appointed at next month's meeting.

That Body of Yours
by JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

THE COMMON COLD AND THE ALLERGIC COLD

Perhaps you are afflicted with frequent colds, but you notice that while some of these colds seem to last only two or three days, and remain in the head, others last for a week or more, and you cough and get up much mucous. If such be the case it is possible that the light cold or "head" cold is not really a genuine cold, or cold due to infection, the symptoms being due to some substance—pollen of plants, house dust, or some chemical irritant.

Dr. Louis Tuft in his book "Clinical Allergy" states "Colds are not acute infective colds—coryza or the common cold—unless they begin with an irritation in the nose; general malaise—prostration; discharge from the nose, at first a thin mucous, and later becoming like pus; and fever."

"'Colds' beginning with sneezing, followed by a 'watery' discharge from the nose, obstruction of the nose, perhaps a cough, with no fever, are more likely to be allergic rhinitis—due to allergy or sensitiveness to various substances—possibly associated with asthma."

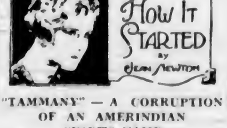

A description of this allergic, running nose, asthmatic type of cold due to sensitiveness to substances should help us to distinguish between it and the true or genuine common cold.

"If sneezing is followed by nasal obstruction (nose blocked), watery discharge from the nose, shortness of breath, wheezing and cough, the condition is more likely to be a specific allergic type of asthma, than if there is cough, expectoration from the throat and bronchial tubes, followed by wheezing, which is more likely to be due to organisms causing the common cold."

"The time of the attack of this allergic or sensitiveness type of asthmatic cold is important. If it occurs at night there may be something in the bedroom—dust, talcum powder, feathers—causing the symptoms; whereas, if the attack occurs shortly after a meal, food allergy or sensitiveness to foods should be suspected."

The thought then is that the genuine common cold may begin with nose irritation, just as with the "allergic" cold, but the common cold "puts you down," prostrates you, the discharge from the nose is thick, there is cough and expectoration, and there is a rise in the temperature.

How It Started
by JEAN NEWTON

"TAMMANY" — A CORRUPTION OF AN AMERINDIAN CHIEF'S NAME

Tammany, notorious for generations as the corrupt wing of the Democratic Party in New York, is in addition a corruption of the name of a Delaware Indian leader, Tammenund.

Chief Tammenund ruled over his tribesmen with gentle wisdom, trying always to maintain friendly relations with the whites; indeed, so did he endear himself in the hearts and heads of the latter that they facetiously canonized him as the patron saint of the republic—St. Tammany!

In 1789, there was organized in New York a charitable organization which, in compliment to this beloved Amerindian, called itself the Tammany Society.

In time, the Tammany Society expanded its activities, taking on political aspects and changing its name to Tammany Hall; now come upon lean times, but in former years the controlling power in New York City, and, at times, in the State.

"Can You Fix a Parking Ticket?"

Jane Dixon Says:

SOME OF OUR GIRL JOB-HUNTERS SHOULD GET WISE TO THE FACT THAT EMPLOYERS ARE LOOKING FOR SERVICE, NOT SENSATION

"How can I get a job?"

A young woman asked me that question only the other day.

She is a young woman with an excellent general education, an honor graduate of an accidited business school. As to looks she is considerably above average. She has the advantage of a bright personality, a musical speaking voice and a quick wit.

In other words, here is a worker who has what it takes, yet there are no takers.

"I'd say there just aren't any more jobs," she went on, "if I hadn't answered dozens of want ads offering exactly the kind of work I can do. Employers want help, but they don't want me. Why? If they'd only give me a chance!"

The young woman was in a state of nerves over her continued failure to land and as she spoke she kept worrying her bag, snapping and unsnapping the clasp.

Heavenly days! No wonder men who hired and fired went on telling her she wouldn't do!

Her fingernails were not nails at all, they were talons! A quarter of an inch long, sharp as a tiger's claws and looking as though they had been dipped in blood. "Predatory" is the word they brought flashing across the screen of the mind. And what man, hunter though he be, deliberately hires a predatory woman to go clawing about his place of business?

One could visualize a hurried employer trying to unfocus his mind and his eyes from those lurid, crimson claws slipping across a notebook. They did not ask for attention, those red badges of garish vanity. They screamed for it!

A further survey furnished a very patent key to the young woman's failure.

She had just come from a round of job-seeking. She wore a powder mask of a shade that was supposed to be "exotic," but which made her look like a used gardenia. Her eyelids dropped under applied purplish shadows. Her mouth was a scarlet wound. A disturbing perfume enveloped her.

I thought of my editor's secretary who is doing so well in her job she is paid for being indispensible—one of those open-faced girls who "just can't keep her nose powdered" during strenuous working hours, whose neatly-kept nails fly over the keys with effect of machine-gun fire and who wears the smartest and plainest shirt-frocks the market affords.

It is pretty hopeless—for some of us—finding jobs," I said.

I wonder how long it will take my spectacular young friend to catch on to the fact that employers are looking for service, not for sensation.

STUNNING—AND THEN SOME

"Did you ever hear anything so perfectly stunning?" exclaimed the daughter of the house as she tuned the radio on to a new jazz tune.

"No," replied the father. "The nearest thing I ever heard to it was when a truck loaded with empty milk cans had a collision with another truck that was loaded with hogs."

BUSES VS. STREET CARS

Sir,—Those who travel by street car in Victoria and in the municipalities are faced with the loss of the dollar pass and they are likely to be compelled to pay a seven or eight-cent fare. The Victoria City Council is determined to waste the great asset of hydro-electric power and to rely solely on gasoline for transportation. There is still time for the wage earners, housewives and people who cannot afford motor cars to get together to stop a scheme which will take more money from those who are least able to pay.

Here is an example of the high cost of bus transportation. In Vancouver two days ago the bus fares over the Lion's Gate Bridge were announced. Traveling time from Dunsmuir Street to Ambleside will be twenty minutes. Commutation fare will be seventeen cents with commutation books containing ten tickets, and cash fare will be twenty-five cents one way. Those fares are so high that West Vancouver is considering the prospect of installing a municipal bus service into Vancouver to help those who must have cheap transportation to go to work or to do their shopping.

Victoria's supply of hydro-electric power is not affected by war, scarcity or price combines. Here is an example of restriction in the use of gasoline in time of war which appeared in the "Looking Backward" column. "Twenty years ago. October 6, 1918. Save Gas. Military orders received in the city today contain the announcement that until further notice no motor cars are to be used by the military on Mondays except in cases of greatest necessity. This course has been taken to conserve gasoline as much as possible for the use of troops at the front."

From the conflicting reports on the Vancouver meeting with the president of the B.C. Electric Company we have learned that the men who are determined to wreck the street car system cannot even give an unbiased and accurate report of a business conference. They do not promise lower fares or more commodious and comfortable cars. So far as Esquimalt and Victoria West are concerned the route by the Johnson Street Bridge could be taken by the electric trolley buses which are now displacing street cars in many cities. The only thing that the Victoria City Council can promise is that after they have destroyed street car competition, bus companies may be able to raise their fares on all routes for the benefit of their shareholders.

Surely there are some public-spirited citizens in Victoria who can organize a mass meeting of protest immediately.

R. P. MATHESON.
327 Constance Avenue, Esquimalt, B.C., October 8, 1938.

PEACE

Sir,—It strikes me as strange that there seems no notice taken of the Christian viewpoint of the Peace; strange because millions of Christians earnestly prayed to God that He would grant Peace when human efforts seemed likely to fail, and war inevitable. In answer to prayer, God gave Peace. "What says our Lord, 'Ask and it shall be given you.'" Luke xi, 9, and verse 12. "If he ask an egg will he offer him a scorpion," does a father do that? So our Lord says, will not God answer prayer with what is good and not evil.

Those of you who will read the first thirteen verses of Luke xi will find the Christian viewpoint of this Peace, and take courage that God answers prayer in the only way that is good, and will not be afraid of the future, which doubters distrust.

GEORGE AITKENS
Ganges, B.C., October 8, 1938.

A DISCLAIMER

Sir,—On September 30 Mr. Georges S. Heon, Conservative M.P. for Argenteuil Co., gave an address under the auspices of the Young Men's Section of the Winnipeg Board of Trade. It would be quite misleading and rather a misfortune if those who listened to this speech or read the report of it in the press should take this young man seriously or attach any importance to his fulminations. Mr. Heon was practically unknown in this province until the death, a few months ago, of Sir George Perley, Conservative M.P. for Argenteuil for many years. By posing as a Conservative and relying on the prestige of the eminent and beloved former member, Mr. Heon managed to secure the nomination for the vacancy and gained an easy victory over the Liberal candidate, who had been defeated previously several times in the same riding. But the recently elected member has not yet occupied a seat in the House of Commons and it seems rather early in the day to be touring the Dominion as a Conservative M.P.

Like everybody else in this free country, Mr. Heon has a perfect right to his own opinions, however fantastic they may be, but in his public utterances, he is, in duty bound, to make it quite clear that he is speaking for himself alone and not for the Conservative Party, from whom he has received no mandate whatever. Most Conservatives, except, possibly, the very young, would consider it more becoming in a budding politician, however confident of his own merits, and proud of the achievement of breaking into Parliament (a feat which rather seems to have gone to his head), to have allowed a decent interval to elapse between his election and the touring of Canada as a Conservative orator. Indeed, the ideas he advances were never countenanced in Conservative circles and it is difficult for reasonable people to understand how he can demand complete autonomy for Canada and, at the same time expect full protection from Britain in the event of war and insist upon material and economic benefits from the same source. An example of the latter attitude is shown by this gem, from a recent editorial in Le Canada: "What shall we do to obtain from the Federal Government, the creation in Quebec of several aviation schools, and what shall we do to incite the British nation to give to our province a large part of the contracts, which it is prepared to accord to Canadian manufacturers?" A large part, mark you! Nothing small about Mr. Heon's compatriots when they want something from Britain.

It would be unfair to assume that all French Canadians agree with Mr. Heon. Many of the better educated and more intelligent realize that Britain has been most just, not to say generous, in the dealings with Quebec. Compare the privileges accorded this province as to race, religion and language, with the treatment received by the Indians as a conquered race.

In a speech made by Hon. Leopold Macaulay, Conservative leader in the Ontario legislature, October 1, he reiterates the Ontario Conservative Party's absolute support of Britain's foreign policy, an attitude which most Canadian Conservatives will fully endorse.

(MRS.) JOHN SCOTT,
Hon. President Women's Conservative Association of Montreal and District, Westmount, Que., October 2, 1938.

WHAT OF THE GORGE?

Sir,—That worldly-wise and somewhat cynical old philosopher, Dr. Samuel Johnson, of Raselas and Dictionary fame, was wont to remark when he heard of a man having the temerity to marry a second time that "it was but the triumph of hope over experience." The obiter dictum of the famous old philosopher came to my mind when reading the very interesting article by Mr. John Day entitled "What of the Gorge?" in your Sunday's issue.

As the author so pertinently points out, that remarkable waterway, provided by Nature, who has indeed treated this district in a most beneficent manner, could have been, and should have been, one of the greatest assets to this city, where every prospect should but please, had man's work not been so vile.

For many years we have indulged in a senseless squandermania of outside advertising, whilst allowing our natural scenic beauties one after another to be despoiled. Our beaches around the city, at our very front door, are an abomination of desolation, covered with pots, pans, broken bottles, rotten fruit, vegetables and garbage of even a more objectionable nature; our corner lots, which the city has robbed, it can be called no other, from their rightful owners, who might have kept them in some decent shape, are very much in appearance like the logged-off Island forest lands, which no other community in the world would tolerate; and altogether one cannot but feel that Mr. John Day's plea will fall on deaf ears, and that nothing will be done about it save talk. A pity 'tis, but pity it is true.

CHAPTER XXXIII

There was a passionately devoted letter from Jeff when Lyle returned with Suzanne from Stephen's Christmas party. How he missed her, how dull it was at home, how he loved her! Lyle was standing in the living-room still wearing her coat and hat and with the mud of Connecticut still on her shoes when she read it. Read it, not believing it was dull in Boston with Troy there! Jeff was lying. Suddenly she felt almost sick and hated her mind for its honesty.

Bonnie and Mike were home and in bed. Lyle went at once to her room but could not sleep for vivid mental pictures of Jeff and Troy together at parties in Boston. Jeff, gay again, his black eyes bright with warmth. . . . And all she could think of was what she had thought the night he asked her to marry him —"I love him. I love him so."

Bonnie was arranging long-stemmed red roses in a tall blue vase when Lyle came home the next night.

Flags of color waved briefly in Bonnie's face. "From an old boy friend in Baltimore," she said, smiling. "Harry Bruce. I saw him at parties at home. He wanted to come up and take me out on New Year's Eve. But I told him not to come. He's become very successful since I knew him back in high school." Gently her hand cupped one of the roses. It's no new romance, Lyle. There never will be a new romance for me, ever. I'm married and I'll stay married until Michael wants it otherwise. Now tell me about your holiday in Connecticut. Are you sure that Stephen Tennant isn't a little in-love with you?"

"Stephen?" Lyle's quick laugh ridiculed such an idea. No! He thinks of me as an artist not a girl."

Stephen telephoned Lyle one evening that week.

"I've made a connection for Jeff," he said and told her the name of the company. "I've recommended him and explained that he was not to know I had made the connection for him. I confess it required a few lies but I think Jeff will be placed. The rest I leave up to you."

How curt and businesslike he sounded. "Thank you, Stephen. I'll take care of the rest."

She went back to her room to work on a painting for Mrs. Nash.

In his apartment Stephen extinguished a cigarette with a firm, angry hand. Lyle was home, working no doubt while Jeff was in Boston spending her money on Troy! Jeff was playing while Lyle was working, and while he, Stephen, had been communicating with influential friends all week! And in all probability she wouldn't even mention to Jeff that she knew he had been with Troy. Happy to see him, close in Jeff's arms, his greeting kiss fresh and sweet on her mouth, Lyle would want no scene, no quarrel, to spoil his return.

All through that festive holiday week Stephen thought of her, knowing that for her it was not a festive week but a dull and lonely one. A week of waiting, a week of visualizing Jeff with another girl. And still Jeff retained her love. Still her loyalty was unshaken. There were many stories of great loves and great loyalties of which one never heard.

And now he felt an incompleteness and loneliness he had never felt before. Suddenly his comfortable, successful, amazing life had been reduced to loose ends and ragged edges. And his mind that week, no matter where he was, continually strayed to a slender auburn-haired girl working at her drawing-board —while everyone else wined and dined and the man she loves had put several hundred miles between her and himself! The unfairness of it! He loathed his helplessness. But in this he felt defeated.

Lyle waited and worked and played with little Mike and talked cheerfully to Bonnie. One night she called her mother in Florida and felt better when Mrs. Marsh told her she had felt better this Winter than she had in years. Anything so as not to think! But the days dragged with doubts and uncertainties and ugly thoughts. Such intolerably long days and nights while Jeff was in Boston—but not with his mother.

Jeff had said he was coming back on New Year's Eve and that they would celebrate together. But that day a telegram came, stating that he would not be back until the next evening. This time no excuse for him hurried to allay her hurt or to comfort her. Jeff was staying in Boston for a New Year's Eve party with Troy. It took little excuse for him to stay anywhere where there was a party.

And so on the maddest, merriest night of the year Lyle stayed in with Bonnie and went to bed long before midnight brought the new year. But she did not sleep until the new year was several hours old, for thinking of Jeff and knowing that Troy was with him.

(To Be Continued.)

"Don't you think that 'puppy love' is absurd?"

"Yes. Just two silly."

CITIZENS HAVE RESPONSIBILITY

Hon. C. D. Howe Lends Support to Community Chest Appeal in Address

"Be a good neighbor" was the closing admonition in the speech made by Hon. C. D. Howe last evening at Medicine Hat, Alberta, on behalf of the Federated Welfare Agencies, and in connection with which he specially mentioned the Community Chest effort for which appeals are being made almost simultaneously in many places throughout the Dominion. His message, therefore, had equally sound application for Victoria, where a Community Chest campaign is shortly to be launched.

"Monday last," said Mr. Howe, "was the day set apart by our nation for thanksgiving. The anxious weeks that preceded Thanksgiving Day, when the prospect of another world war occupied our thoughts, have given that day a special significance to all of us. It is in that spirit of thanksgiving that we will respond to the appeal of the Community Chest and Federated Welfare agencies. Our response may well be made an expression of our relief that we are to be spared the horrors of war, so well known to our generation."

ANOTHER TYPE OF WAR

"Many are emerging from another type of war—war against the great depression that began some eight years ago. We all know of tragic disasters that have overtaken families by the thousand, and have blighted the lives of old and young. The present problem is more than one of providing the primary necessities—food and shelter. Our taxing authorities, federal, provincial and municipal, are providing these to all in need. Charitable aid is required for those cases where the need is beyond the standardized level of government relief; assistance to families in trouble, care of unprotected children, leadership to young people, rehabilitation of delinquents, hospital and nursing services, special care for the handicapped and infirm, and assistance to the crippled. Such aid must be not only of a material kind, but designed to give new opportunities for a useful life. To such purposes the funds of Community Chests are devoted."

Mr. Howe noted that many might prefer to give directly to the needy rather than through the Community Chest, but the great majority of charitable persons were accepting the view that direct giving was not only no more kindly but might work with a careless and indiscriminate prodigality. The ideals of the charitable, he thought, could be best promoted by co-operative planning.

FIVE BUILDINGS RAZED BY GRANDVIEW FIRE

GRANDVIEW, Man., Oct. 12 (C.)—Fire razed five buildings, including the postoffice, in this town 200 miles northwest of Winnipeg today, leaving three families homeless. Loss is estimated at $30,000.

Buildings destroyed were a one-story garage, owned by H. Weidenhammer; the two-story frame postoffice, in which Charles McDonnell resided; a two-story corrugated tin printing shop of The Grandview Exponent, in which the Chaloner brothers, editors of the paper, resided, and a two-story frame residence of Robert Akers.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

By Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

"Dear Mr. Culbertson,—A few days ago, in rubber bridge, a deal came up which turned out unfortunately for my opponents, although they had what appeared to be excellent hands.

East, dealer.

"The bidding:

East	South	West	North
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♦	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

"As the hand was played, South opened the six of clubs. Declarer took the trick, and after pulling trumps, led hearts. Each time South went just high enough to take the trick and each time returned a club, setting the contract one trick.

"An inspection of the hands shows that East and West could make either three no trump or five diamonds against any defence, and that against North's normal opening of the club queen West could make seven diamonds.

"While this hand is quite unusual, I recall similar hands which have turned out disastrously because of lack of entries. Consequently, I have developed a theory that in cases such as this (both partners holding solid trump suits), the result is usually better if the hand with no entry outside of the trump suit plays as declarer, even though his suit is a minor.

"I would appreciate your comments."

"R. F. B., Illinois."

My mail this week seems rather filled with reports of three bids that should have been two bids. East, it will be observed, had a hand that fully met the requirements for an opening two spade bid. He had four and one-half tricks without his plus values, and although he actually lost all four of his hearts certainly he could not consider them all losers in so far as the bidding was concerned. He had every right to figure his total losers at no more than three, which, of course, gave him an excellent two bid. I have no fault to find with my correspondents' theory. With any such a hand as this, the final contract should be in the suit of the partner who holds no outside entry, but does have a long, solid trump suit. If the opening bid had been correctly chosen, a slam in diamonds unquestionably would have been reached by the following bidding:

East	South	West	North
2 ♠	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♦	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	6 ♦	Pass
Pass	Pass

That this slam could be defeated by the opening heart lead from North would not be a legitimate argument against it. In the first place, there could be no assurance that a heart would be selected as the opening lead and in the second, there was no good reason why the ace-queen had to lie over the king-jack. I must say that East had hard luck to lose all four of his hearts, and with them his contract, but the fact remains that the hand was played in the wrong suit and at the wrong level

Ease CHEST COLD misery

First massage throat, chest, and back with Vicks VapoRub at bedtime. This relieves the distress.

Then, to make its long-continued poultice-and-vapor action last even longer, spread a thick layer of VapoRub on the chest and cover with a warmed cloth. This also gives the skin extra protection against chilling.

Long after restful sleep comes, VapoRub keeps on working—loosens phlegm—eases muscular soreness or tightness—clears air-passages—checks tendency to cough—relieves local congestion.
